Heavy Ground Battles

Report 600 Reds Killed

SAIGON (AP)—A series of fierce battles involving American, South Korean and South Vietnamese troops killed nearly 600 Communist soldiers Friday, according to reports today from the combat units.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the savage fighting had ended a two-week lull in the ground war. Action appeared to have tapered off again today, with only scattered contacts reported.

Two American helicopters were shot down over South Vietnam Friday.

500 Men Lost

Among the Communist dead was a battalion commander cut down by South Vietnamese troops in a fight on the coastal plains northwest of Hue. The Communist battalion of some 500 men lost 216 killed, 15 prisoners, of whom four were women, and 78 weapons left on the bloody field.

The heaviest American action was northeast of Saigon, where an armored column of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment was sweeping a main road through Long Khanh Province.

Viet Cong guerrillas set up an ambush as the column came up the road and a two-hour melee followed. The cavalrymen lost 15 dead and 60 wounded. The enemy toll was 90 dead and 26 weapons left on the field.

American casualties throughout the country totaled 37 dead and 158 wounded.

Woman Crash Victim

Sullivan County State Police reported that a 52-year-old Millwood woman was killed yesterday when the car she was driving smashed into a rock cut.

Mrs. Marilyn Steigman of Glenwood Road, Millwood, was driving east on Route 17, one-half mile west of Route 209, near exit 113, at 3:10 p. m. Friday when, in attempting to pass another automobile, she lost control of her vehicle as the car skidded on the wet pavement.

The Steigman automobile went into a dangerous spin, then went off the road and smashed into the rock cut on the south side of the highway.

Trooper A. H. Jones arrived at the scene and the woman was taken to Monticello Community Hospital where coroner's physician Dr. Jeffery Rakosi was summoned.

Dr. Rakosi pronounced Mrs. Steigman dead on arrival, the cause listed as a fractured skull.

Some Color TV Sets Suspect

9,000 May Be Radioactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 9,000 color television set owners and their families may be exposed to harmful radioactive rays from their sets, says the government.

It urged the unknown owners of the large-screen color consoles and table models manufactured by the General Electric Co. and sold between Sept.

1, 1966 and May 31, 1967 to pull the plugs and keep their television screens dark pending a check on possible radioactivity.

The warning came Friday from Surgeon General William H. Stewart, who said a painstaking nationwide search by General Electric had failed to turn up the 9,000 sets.

That's about one-tenth of the television sets the company feared might be emitting potentially harmful X-rays from certain tubes.

Even if the sets are issuing such rays, the extent of the harm they could cause was not precisely known.

Dr. Stewart described such rays as "a potential hazard to human health." A Public Health Service spokesman said later he saw no need for any owners of one of the sets to consult a doctor.

A GE spokesman said the color sets involved have 18-, 20-, 22- and 23-inch screens.

The tubes involved were identified by the numbers 6EF4 and 6L06.

Owners of such sets were urged to notify GE dealers or service centers or state or local health departments before using them.

In Syracuse, N.Y., a GE spokesman said the sets involved "have a blue fine tune gauge above the control knobs and have on the back of the set either a serial number sticker beginning with OA or OD or no serial number at all."

"Receivers which already have been modified have a red and white label pasted on the back covering regulator tube replacement."

PRICE TEN CENTS

Racial Troubles Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The racial violence in New Jersey cities spread to Englewood Friday night and eight policemen were injured in a brief rock-throwing, window-smashing outbreak by Negro youths. Calm was restored early today.

Two Fires

In Minneapolis National Guardsmen kept a tense peace, but firemen were busy putting out two fires touched off by arsonists.

A black power conference in Newark shouted support for a statement backing the "right of black people to revolt when they deem it necessary", calling for a United Nations observation team to come to the city, demanding the replacement of its white mayor with a Negro.

In Englewood, 16 miles north of riot-ravaged Newark, more than 200 city and county policemen were summoned to deal with the disturbance. None of the eight injured officers was seriously hurt.

Mayor's Charge

In Plainfield, N.J., also hit by rioting last week, Mayor George F. Hetfield charged that he had sufficient proof that his city's troubles were caused by nonresidents and said the proof would be divulged "in due course." National Guard troops were removed from the city Friday.

In Minneapolis, a two-alarm fire at a church and school three blocks from the site of three fires Thursday night triggered the movement of National Guardsmen.

Faced with a Sunday deadline to meet Negro demands, Cairo, Ill., officials clamped on an 8 p. m. curfew and closed bars and liquor stores. Mayor Lee Stenzel and city officials conferred with federal and state representatives on possible action to satisfy the Negro community that their wishes were known and something is being done.

Driving Takes A Beating

Violent thunder showers last night and heavy fog early this morning made driving hazardous throughout the county.

The weekend weather forecast for Ulster County however is promising. Sunny skies and fair temperatures appears to be the forecast with a possibility of late afternoon thunder showers for both Saturday and Sunday.

Black Power Parley Wants U.N. Support

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Delegates to a quiet conference on black power exploded into sudden action Friday night, wildly cheering proposals to recall Mayor Hugh Addonizio and ask the United Nations to investigate the treatment of Negroes in the United States.

The more than 400 Negroes of the rally shouted their approval of demands to release without bail every Negro arrested in the recent riots here and of a statement supporting "the right of black people to revolt when they deem it necessary and in their interests."

Militant Factions

Floyd McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, poet-playwright Leroy Jones, Los Angeles black nationalist Ron Karenga and comedian Dick Gregory suggested the various resolutions as the more militant factions took over a night meeting.

With a few conspicuous exceptions, whites were excluded from what had originally been billed as a public meeting in the Mt. Zion AME church.

McKissick, after a long, freestanding speech on the theme that whites are determined to exterminate American Negroes, drew a standing ovation when he announced a plan to recall the mayor.

"Too long white elected officials have been immune from the wrath of the black population," he said as delegates stood time and time again to roar their approval.

"We have consulted with the progressive black leaders of this community. It is agreed that there must be a recall election to get rid of Hugh Addonizio and replace him with a black mayor."

25,000 Signatures

Gregory, who had suggested the recall during a sometimes funny, but often serious monologue, said only 25,000 signatures — one-quarter of those who voted in the last election in 1966 — would be needed to get a special election. That shouldn't be hard, he said, since more than half of Newark's 400,000 population is Negro.

The crowd, growing more enthusiastic by the minute, gave McKissick a standing ovation, then stood again as Jones, who was arrested and hospitalized early in last week's riots, climbed on stage.

"We are peace-loving people being oppressed," he said to an audience cheering so loudly that they often drowned out his shouted words.

"We demand that a United Nations observation team come into Newark. We will no longer stand for representation by these clowns and these running dogs and these sick toms. This is the beginning of a new era."

The rally represented a radical change of mood from the day-long workshops, where delegates bent on uniting the slogan "Black Power" worked soberly and hard to develop a program all could agree on.

Explorer Sets Moon Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Slowed by a jolting blast from a braking rocket, America's Lunar Explorer satellite swooped into an orbit about the moon today.

The spacecraft, launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, is designed to investigate radiation and other potential hazards to moon-bound astronauts.

At 5:19 a. m. today, as Lunar Explorer neared the end of its 225,608-mile earth-to-moon voyage, a station at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., sent a radio signal to trigger the retrorocket.

The motor fired with a 23-second burst to slow the speed of the 230-pound payload from 5,440 to 2,040 miles an hour. The slowdown enabled the moon's gravitational field to tug the Explorer into an orbit about the moon.

Two hours later a Goodard spokesman reported the craft had settled into the lunar surface. The satellite requires 11.4 hours to make each circuit.

"All experiments are working, and it looks beautiful," the spokesman reported.

The retrorocket was ignited when the payload was about 4,200 miles from the moon.

High Speed Chase Bags 2 Fugitives

By WALTER S. CLARK

An extensive manhunt which followed a high speed chase along the State Thruway early today, ended when two Bronx youths were apprehended and charged with the theft of a new car reported stolen in New York City.

During the pursuit of the stolen car, troopers traveled at speeds in excess of 110 miles an hour, it was reported.

Charged with grand larceny for auto theft and facing vehicle and traffic law violations were James C. Stout, 17, and Howard W. Nicholeau, 16, both of Topping Avenue, Bronx.

It was shortly before 4 a. m. when Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties, a toll collector at the Saugerties interchange, spotted a car with two youths riding from the exit of the superhighway. Seconds later the vehicle returned and reentered the Thruway, this time heading south.

Hinchey was suspicious of the youths and he notified state police. Troopers J. M. Stinton and Stanley Roberts of Troop T spotted the vehicle which had been checked through Albany headquarters and reported to be a stolen car out of New York City.

Stinton and Roberts pursued the southbound car and radioed headquarters. Troopers from Highland, Kingston and Troop T state police north and south of the city were alerted and given a description of the pursued vehicle.

Leaped From Car

Trooper S. J. Bailey, who participated in the search, told The Freeman that the occupants of the stolen vehicle leaped from the car while it was still in motion near mile post 89 about two miles south of Kingston. The car came to a stop on the center mail and the two youths fled into the nearby woods near the DeWitt Lake area.

Troopers converged from several points on the area after Rolling Meadows residents reported they had seen two men roaming through that development.

A call was sent to Troop K headquarters at Hawthorne and the State Police bloodhounds were prepared for a trip to this area to aid in the manhunt. About two hours after the suspects abandoned the car and disappeared, they were taken into custody about two miles south of where they were last seen.

Trooper H. R. Gannon of the Newburgh detail and Troopers Bailey and J. W. Sanderson spotted the pair walking along the thruway and took them into custody.

BCI Investigator G. A. Grunwald later questioned the two youths, and New York City authorities were notified of the recovery of the car and the apprehension of the defendants.

Stout and Nicholeau were held for arraignment and further questioning.

Gromyko Goes Out A Loser

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—With a U.S.-Soviet compromise balked by Arab opposition, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was heading home today without the prize the Russians had sought—a United Nations resolution demanding that Israel withdraw its troops from Arab soil.

Gromyko voted with U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg Friday for a procedural resolution to conclude the General Assembly's five-week emergency session on the Middle East crisis. Arab delegates called the resolution a cover-up and voted against it.

The resolution, passed 63-26 with Israel and 26 other countries abstaining, sends the debate back to the Security Council, where it began. The council was expected to meet in one to three weeks on the issue of Israel's take-over of the Jordanian and Israeli sectors of Jerusalem.

Gromyko told newsmen he was satisfied with the 122-nation emergency session because "the overwhelming majority of delegations in this or that form condemned the aggressor," meaning Israel.

But the Russians' last hope that the assembly session they had called might adopt a resolution condemning Israel was dashed when the Arabs refused to go along with a resolution for Israeli withdrawal agreed on by Gromyko and Goldberg Wednesday.

The compromise resolution would have called on the Arab states to end their 19-year state of belligerence against Israel, a concession Algeria and Syria said they could not accept.

Resnick Plans for Senate Remain Secret Until August

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., Friday told reporters he would make a formal announcement during the first week of August concerning plans to challenge Senator Jacob Javits' Senate seat.

Sources close to the congressman speculate he will not attempt to secure the Democratic designation to oppose the popular Javits however.

Resnick's remarks were made yesterday at a press conference in his Poughkeepsie district office.

During interviews, Resnick accused four fellow congressmen of conflict of interest and said he intended to lodge charges against them before the House Ethics Committee.

He declared, "I intend to lodge charges against four members of my agriculture subcommittee whose recent vote to rebuff me before the House Agriculture Committee was influenced by their membership in the Farm Bureau."

The Ellenville Democrat was rebuffed 27-1 last week within the agriculture committee because of statements he made against the Farm Bureau. The vote basically dissociated the committee from Resnick's accusations.

Resnick repeated charges that the bureau took tax exemptions under false pretenses. He claimed the bureau was not merely a federation of farmers but was in fact the owners of several insurance companies raking huge profits.

Resnick said that not all the policyholders were members of the farm bureau and the tax exemptions the bureau held were invalid.

The Internal Revenue Service is currently investigating the accuracy of his statements, according to the congressman. He noted that if the bureau was found to have withheld taxes, the arrears money owed the government would total into the high millions.

Asked to explain his vote against the Anti-Riot Act passed Wednesday in the House, Resnick said, "The bill isn't worth a salt. It only serves as a smokescreen."

"All evidence points to the fact that city riots are not caused by outside agitators. They are a result of poor housing, poor education and a general lack of opportunity. The correction of these conditions is the only thing that will prohibit riots."

The congressman however confided that once a riot occurred swift police action was the only alternative. He said his vote was not an indication that he tolerated violence.

Switching his sentiments over proposed legislation regulating the sale of firearms, Resnick said, "I will never vote for legislation prohibiting the sale of firearms to legitimate sportsmen. But I don't feel machine guns, heavy artillery falls under legitimate sportsmen. There should be regulations governing the sales of such weapons."

He added that any Federal law would be considerably less stringent than current New York State laws regulating the sale of weapons.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Libby Roberts Maynard's faith has rocketed her from a pleasant life at Shorter College in Rome, Ga., to one of the toughest sections of Brooklyn. She is one of about fifty U.S.-2 volunteers working to meet the urgent spiritual and social needs of America. U.S.-2 is a two-year U.S. mission appointment for outstanding college graduates by the Home Mission Board, Southern Baptist Convention. Libby has worked with the First Polish Baptist Church in Brooklyn. In her charge have been 150 children and young people 4 to 20 years old. She has broken up gang fights, given motivation to boys and girls who never had any, and communicated with them in homes where a foreign language is spoken. She learned fast, developed a good working relationship with the police, formed hobby clubs and opened a coffee house where teen-agers could meet. The gangs at first tried to sabotage her work but slowly she won their confidence and loyalty. Recently she was made honorary member of one of the gangs, an indication of the success of her mission.

200 Groups Invited To Loyalty Parade

Invitations to join in a Kingston-Ulster County Loyalty parade are being mailed to more than 200 area organizations by the sponsoring Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association. The parade is scheduled for the morning of Saturday, Sept. 23, in Kingston.

Co-chairmen Robert F. Gollnick and Gerard J. Kelder Jr., this week appointed William J. Schreiber and William K. Schwerdtfeger to head a music committee and named Fire Fighters Association Local 461 Secretary Hugh C. Greer as communications chairman. Selected to head a parade control committee was Dennis Lenahan.

Fireman James M. Longendyke, a veteran of the Vietnam War, will contact other area men who served in Vietnam, asking them to join in the parade.

The invitation to area organizations states the firefighters feel that it is important "that we in Ulster County show support of our Nation, our President and our Armed Forces as they wage the fight to preserve liberty and justice."

Organizations are asked to notify the parade chairman (CPO Box 233) by Sept. 8, stating how many persons they expect to have in the line of march and also whether they will have a musical unit.

Farmhand Has Severed Arm Rejoined

COBLESKILL, N.Y. (AP) — The right arm of a young farm worker has been rejoined a day after it was ripped off by mower blades, a surgeon at a small hospital in this village west of Albany said Friday.

Dr. Thomas Greenlees said the success of the operation, however, "is still questionable."

Greenlees and other physicians worked for five hours to restore the arm of Larry Nortell, 21, of nearby Lawersville.

Nortell's arm was severed Thursday while he was mowing hay on a farm near here. He had been knocked from a tractor seat by tree limb.

The break was just above the arm's joint, Greenlees said, and "the bone was somewhat shattered."

In addition, he said, the chances for a successful graft were reduced because the severed arm had been exposed to the sun for more than an hour, thus increasing the chance of infection.

Bishop Pike Divorcing After 23 Years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The wife of the controversial church leader Bishop James A. Pike is divorcing him after 23 years of marriage.

Esther Pike filed the action Friday, charging mental cruelty. She reported a property settlement has been reached and a hearing is scheduled Tuesday before Superior Court Judge Byron Arnold.

Pike, 54, resigned in May 1966 as Episcopal bishop of California and now is theologian in residence at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at San Barbara, Calif.

In a joint statement the bishop and his wife said "outside factors beyond her control of either contributed for some time to our drifting apart." They said neither will seek to remarry and agreed to say nothing beyond their signed statement.

The Pikes are parents of three children. They are Mrs. Catherine Paterson, 24, Constance, 18, and Christopher 17.

U.S. May Resume Middle East Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering resuming arms shipments to the Middle East — and publicly announcing the quantities it supplies.

In announcing consideration of resuming arms shipments — suspended during the Israeli-Arab war — State Department officials said Friday the Soviet Union apparently still is supplying such Arab nations as Egypt and Algeria with weapons.

The officials said unless Soviet shipments to the Middle East cease, the United States also should sell armaments. They said U.S. failure to do so would shift powers balances in the tinderbox area and perhaps contribute to another outbreak of war.

Powell Doesn't Show At Power Parley

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell kept a lot of people waiting for him at the black power conference in Newark, N.J., and at Kennedy Airport in New York. He did not show up, and he did not send his regrets.

The ousted congressman from Harlem called a news conference today at his tiny island retreat in the British Bahamas. Powell also stood up a delegation from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday who said in New York they had arranged for Powell to surrender for arrest.

rest to New York County Sheriff John J. McCloskey. Powell's troubles in his constituency stem from a 1963 libel judgment against the congressman by Esther James, a widow whom Powell called a "bag woman" — a graft collector for crooked police.

Powell had been expected to attend the black power conference Friday. He faces a jail term of at least 90 days in New York for criminal contempt. A Supreme Court jury found him guilty last fall of evading court orders in connection with a libel judgment.

Urge Students To File for State Grants

New York State's program of financial aid to college students is the largest and most extensive of any in the country and still growing. Because of this, the State Education Department reports, students who want their notice of awards before registering for the fall semester should file their applications without further delay.

During the past school year, The New York State Department of Education distributed $32 million dollars to college students for higher education under the Regents Scholarship and Fellowship Program and $35 million dollars under the Scholar Incentive Program.

Students who wish to receive a notice of award before registering for the fall term, must file applications immediately. Although applications for fall will be accepted until Dec. 1, delay in submitting the application at this time will result in delayed payment.

Any legal resident of New York State who will this year be attending, full-time, a degree granting tuition college located in New York State and who has not received an application form, should contact the New York State Education Department, Regents Examination and Scholarship Center, 800 North Pearl Street, Albany, N. Y. 12204 for information.

ANTI-RIOT LEGISLATION

The anti-riot act sailed through the House of Representatives that reached the end of its patience when race riots in Newark, N. J. left death, destruction and looting in its wake.

Congressman Resnick voted against the bill, which he called unconstitutional. He said it is an "instigation to riot" and the basest form of self-deception.

There is some question whether the riot legislation will stop the rioting. With laws in every state and the District of Columbia against rioting, some officials felt that a federal law was not needed. All of those apprehensions are of no matter now.

The recurring outbreak of rioting and looting and burning, of killing police and firemen who are there to protect life and property, have stirred the people deeply. Congress had to respond as patience ran out over the country.

There is a gap in the state and district laws. They did not make it a crime for agitators to cross state lines to "organize, incite, promote or encourage or carry on a riot." The federal law is directed against such riot outrages. Specifically, although the law does not say so, it is aimed at the advocates of black power who stir their kind to "take it out" on the whites. More specifically, there has been no secret about the fact that Stockley Carmichael is the type of black power advocate the act would single out.

There is a strong consensus that the way to hamper fatal riots, if not prevent them, is for Congress to pass a firearms control bill. Keeping guns out of the hands of rioters will go a long way to keep them cool. Some guns the rioters use no doubt are smuggled here via Iron Curtain countries, supposedly peacefully trading with us.

A Federal Court in San Francisco held that American Indians are citizens and are subject to the draft. Pvt. Richard D. Williams, 22, a Shoshone Indian from Nevada argued that as a treaty Indian he had been illegally drafted. The treaty applies to land, not persons, the court held.

"DIGNIDAD" AND THE PUERTO RICAN PLEBISCITE

"Dignidad" is a peculiarly Latin concept, and it will play a large part in the Puerto Rican plebiscite this Sunday when the islanders vote on whether to retain their present commonwealth status, or to join the U. S. as the fifty-first state, or to become an independent nation. The "independistas" naturally claim that "dignidad" is only to be achieved in complete freedom. But, in a world of wolves, it is hardly likely that more than five per cent of the Puerto Rican population would elect to become prey to the conniving of Fidel Castro's Communists, who happen to be just next door. "Dignidad" does not consort with living a life of perpetual fear, which is the fate of those who cannot protect themselves against infiltration and subversion from abroad.

There remains the choice between statehood and keeping to the present Puerto Rican way of life, which is built largely on special tax favors that make the island a good place in which to do business. To listen to Luis Ferré, the leader of the statehood party, "dignidad" does not go with being pampered by the tax collector. But Ferré's appeal to the no-tax-favors version of "dignidad" loses some of its force when he argues that if Puerto Ricans were to become like Hawaiians or West Virginians they would be compensated for the loss of tax advantages by getting all the benefits of Washington welfare payments. Puerto Ricans should know that the beneficiaries to make more than a few dollars under penalty of losing of social security, forbidden the insurance they have paid for over the years are not exactly a dignified lot.

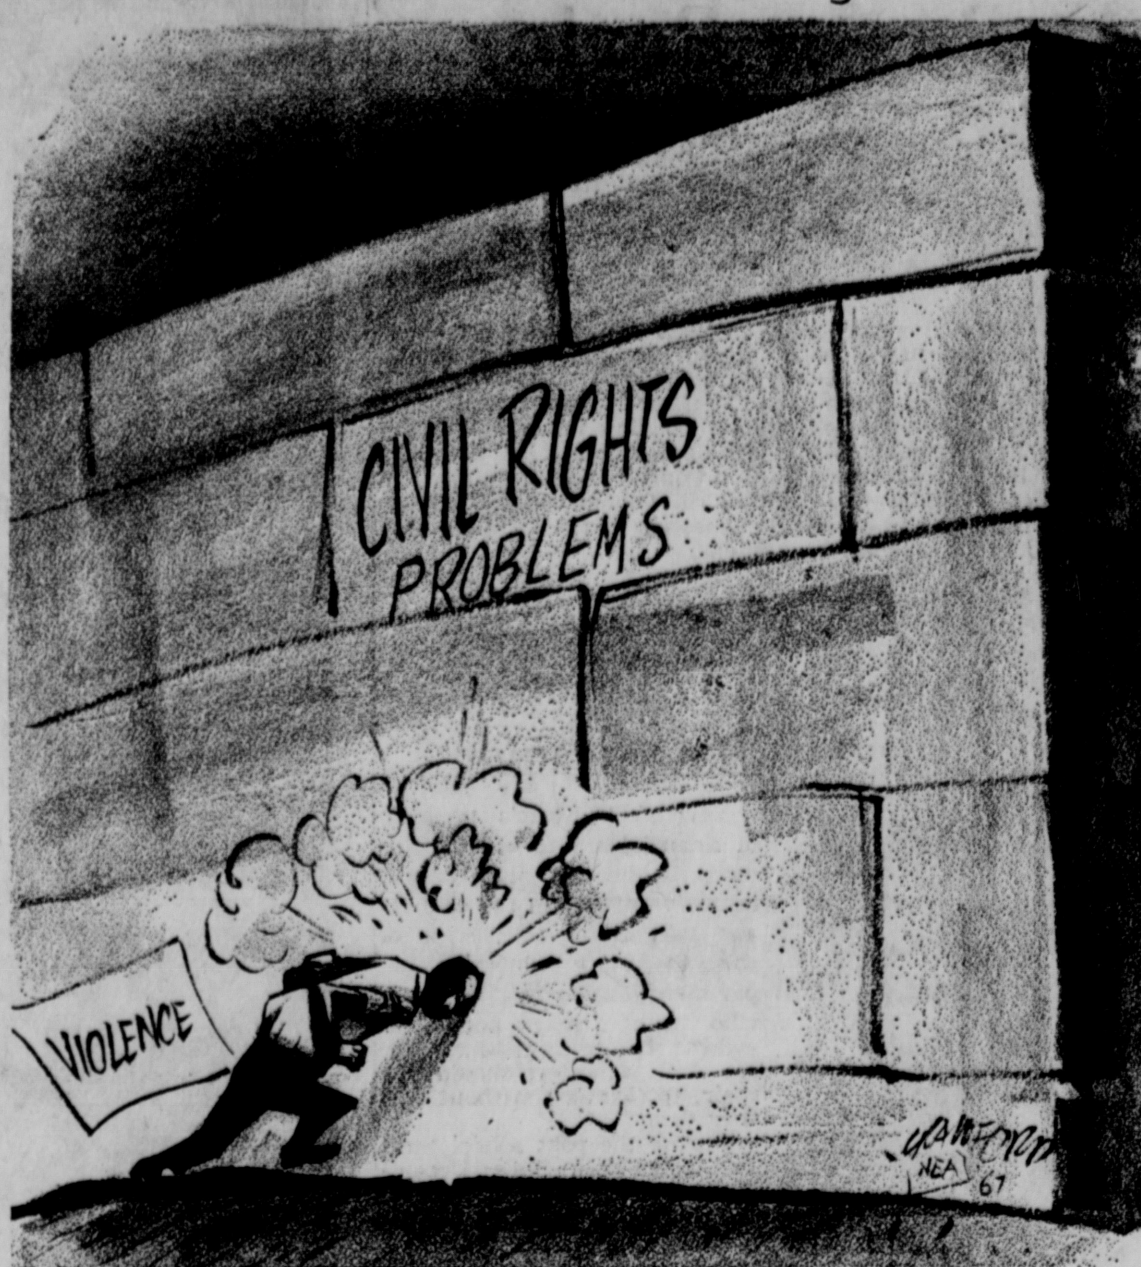

In any case, it is hard to associate the retired ex-governor Luis Munoz-Marin, who fought so hard to gain commonwealth status for his island, with anything but a full measure of "dignidad." Munoz has been out campaigning for the retention of "freedom in association with the United States," a condition that has resulted in a ten-fold increase in the island's per capita income since 1940. (The island average per capita is now slightly more than $1,000 a year, which isn't bad in a tropical country that doesn't have to pay heavy bills for heating, clothing and shelter.) Munoz was not always a "commonwealth man." In his early days as head of the Popular Democrats he toyed with independence. In 1940, the year of his first great electoral victory, Munoz was more concerned with the eradication of vote-buying than he was with questions of economics. I remember being taken to his hide-out in the mountains back of San Juan in December of 1940. He did not talk then of industrial development, but of giving the jibaró, or countryman, land and liberty. Munoz in 1940 was just another agrarian reformer. It was only after wrestling with the problem of governing his island that he became convinced that "dignidad" for his people would be enhanced by more capitalism than a home needwork industry. The result of Munoz's conversion from a somewhat abstract socialism and doctrinaire anti-colonialism was the famous Operation Bootstrap started in 1948. Turning away from the "public ownership" which he had supported, Munoz invited U. S. industrialists to take advantage of special tax laws (ten-year exemptions from property and corporate income taxes, plus, of course, no federal income taxes). He even sold state factories to private industry.

The Chase - Manhattan Bank, which does a big business in Puerto Rico, has recently made a projection of Puerto Rican development for the Nineteen Seventies. It expects individual income to jump from an average of $1,000 a year to $2,000 a year in the coming decade. It foresees a big development of the petrochemical industry, made possible by proximity to Venezuelan oil. There will be an investment boom in the early Seventies, and a consequent shortage of labor, especially skilled workers. Puerto Ricans now living in New York City will be returning to their homeland to take advantage of a record volume of investments made by local capital and joint ventures.

The Chase - Manhattan economists don't bring politics into their projection. But President Stanley Learned of the Phillips Petroleum Company, which is building a petrochemical complex on the island, says that any change in the Puerto Rican political picture would repel U. S. industry. Munoz-Marin has been making use of Learned's statement. "Dignidad," says Munoz, still depends on a full dinner pail.

And the Wall Comes Tumbling Down?

William S. White

Most Significant Action of Decade

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

WASHINGTON — In the political sense, at least, the handwriting is now high upon the wall, and no amount of sentimental waving aside of arson and looting and murder as more-or-less justifiable social and racial "protest" will alter the message. The American people do not propose further to condone felonious crime in the streets simply because those who commit it are, or are said to be, suffering from poor housing or unemployment or discrimination.

To all willing to face reality when reality stares them in the face, this is the meaning of one of the most significant Congressional actions of the decade. This is the passage by a 5 to 1 majority in the House of Representatives, a democratically controlled body by no possible measurement ultra-conservative, of an unexampled anti-riot bill now likely to clear the Senate as well.

A bad bill—a step into unknown territory—it may be, as the minority has insisted. But a reality it is; and a reality approved, moreover, by 167 Democrats and 180 Republicans and opposed by only 66 Democrats and four Republicans. It is primarily directed at such professional Negro agitators as Stockley Carmichael, who move tirelessly about the nation carrying the firebrands of disorder and "black power."

But if the Carmichaels are the immediate targets, this bill has received an irresistible push from another factor altogether. This is the habit of apology, from high places and from low, for every wanton criminality so long as it can be put down to something called civil rights.

If this is an irrational legislative act, it is an inevitable reaction to an irrational spirit which excuses everything that may be perpetrated by members of an undeniably disadvantaged race. The fact that many Negroes are indeed deprived is taken to prove that crime itself is solely the product of "social conditions."

Two things are immensely wrong with this so-simple this so-pat logic. It is factually in error. Crime is sometimes, but by no means always, explainable by slums and poverty; some of the most affluent neighborhoods have plenty of crime. And, the theory—the warm, cozy, foolish theory—insistently encourages hoodlumism by persistently promoting the intolerable notion that armed revolt is a permissible means to force social reform.

Take the riots in Newark. The facts are that the unimpeachably liberal Democratic Governor of New Jersey, Richard Hughes, whose whole career has been built upon sympathetic association with minority groups, says solemnly that Newark was no kind of civil rights protest but rather a plain criminal insurrection.

He adds, on his responsibility as the chief official of his state, that 96 to 97 per cent of Newark's Negroes shunned this riot and that, of those who participated, the majority had criminal records.

So what happens? Richard Hughes and his facts are totally ignored by liberal politicians and commentators. Automatically, they respond with an old litany of clichés: Newark must be excused—just look at all those slums and look at all that unemployment.

No sensible man denies that Negroes need more rights, more help. But no sensible man can deny that those rights and that help are being steadily and widely extended, as never before in history. Why, then, since things, however bad are, progressively better, are "protests" going more and more savage?

In truth, the apologists for the civil disorder are adopting a kind of Uncle Tom's Cabin philosophy, a howlingly emotional, evangelistic view of nonreality in which reason is lost in a sea of misplaced tears, and ill-directed compassion drowns common sense.

It is far easier to weep than to act responsibly upon a clear national danger. It is far pleasanter to say that anarchy is not anarchy but only an indispensable part of a movement for civil rights, even though anarchy terrorizes not simply the whites but also the great bulk of the Negroes themselves.

LBJ chose rail mediators with special care; Senate and House clash over truth-lending; beauty mogul Patrick gets not for "Patriotic Party"

WASHINGTON — The President acted with characteristic speed to assemble his mediation board to act on the railway controversy.

He phoned Fred Kappel, retired chairman of American Telephone and Telegraph, in Switzerland and reached George Meany in Miami. Meany immediately got on a train to return to Washington. The strike ended a few hours before train-time, which was fortunate because George likes to use trains, not planes, whenever possible.

What the President is hoping to do is get a wage agreement acceptable to both the shop-craft unions and the railways long before the two-year deadline expires in 1969.

To this end he picked the mediation board carefully. Ex-Senator, Leverett Saltonstall is a Republican moderate who had a record of being fair to labor. Ted Kheel of New York is one of the top labor mediators in the nation.

Finally, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., knows labor problems better than any other member of Congress, having served as Chairman of the War Labor Board, and as a Senator having mediated the end of four national strikes.

One man, however, blew his top at Morse's appointment—Roy Semmler, head of the Machinists. He was sore because Morse had led the Senate fight for the limited arbitration act which ended the strike, the first compulsory arbitration act in American history.

Other labor leaders did not share Semmler's indignation. They have known Morse for 30 years, respect him as a man who calls the shots as he sees them for the best interest of the country.

There were a few labor leaders who preferred that Meany not serve on the board, but the majority felt that, since mediation-arbitration was now a law, the best thing to do was go along with the law and have Meany help carry it out as a representative for labor.

Note: The President's stamp of approval on Morse by making him chairman of the board probably means that Morse's Democratic opposition in Oregon will evaporate. Ex-Congressman Dan Duncan was making noises about running in the Democratic primary against Morse on a pro Vietnam platform, hoping to get LBJ's support. LBJ's appointment of Morse for the top mediation job in the nation means that the President is for Morse's reelection regardless of Vietnam.

High Interest Hassle
One of the factors contributing to ghetto window smashing — loan sharks and high interest rates is due shortly for a hassle in Congress.

The argument will be between the Senate, which has just passed a truth-lending bill, and the House Banking and Currency Committee, which, despite the Senate vote of 92-0, doesn't consider this bill adequate.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, chairman of the committee, and Rep. Leon Sullivan of St. Louis, long-time consumer protector don't think the Senate bill will do much to protect small-time installment buyers and victims of high interest rates.

Here are a few of the flaws in the Senate bill, which they think the lending lobbyists put across on the Senators:

"Full disclosure" requirements do not cover first mortgage real estate loans. Thus on a $20,000 home loan at 6 per cent interest a bank or loan company is required to state the interest is 6 per cent, but is not required to disclose numerous settlement charges — such as placement fees — sometimes running the interest rate up to 8 or 10 per cent.

Credit charges of $10 or less also are exempt from disclosure under the Senate bill. Thus if a slum dweller buys $300 worth of appliances and is charged a high interest rate on installment, this interest rate would have to be disclosed.

However, if the seller is smart, he can, by offering small discounts on purchases, fix it so the buyer will split up the $300 purchase into separate transactions, so the credit charge on each transaction is less than $10. In this case, disclosure of the interest rate is not mandatory under the Senate truth-lending bill.

The Senate bill also does not cover certain advertising gimmicks, as when a loan company operating in Washington, D. C., and Silver Spring, Md., recently sent out an enticing letter to prospective customers, offering a $2,500 home improvement loan at 6 per cent interest.

Investigation by Patman's committee revealed that the 6 per cent was a fraudulent come-on. Actually, a customer would have to pay a number of hidden charges, including life and disability insurance, also a credit check fee, bringing the interest up to 19 per cent — not 6 per cent.

Patrick for Vice President

The California cosmetics manufacturer, William Penn Patrick, who is financing the recall move against Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has just chalked up a unique score for himself. He has been nominated as a Vice-Presidential candidate of the so-called "Patriotic Party," running with George Wallace of Alabama for President.

The nominating speech for Patrick was made at the party's Kansas City convention by Robert Bolivar de Pugh, national chairman of the Patriotic Party and leader of the Minutemen. de Pugh was convicted in 1966 of violating the Federal Firearms Act.

De Pugh described Patrick as a "self-made millionaire at the age of 37." He is head of the "Holiday Magic" cosmetics company, and financed the printing of the circulars which flooded Idaho demanding the recall of Sen. Church. Patrick considered Church too moderate on foreign affairs. So far the recall movement has pretty well fizzled; has turned a lot of Republicans in favor of Church, a Democrat.

"Quite a few leaders throughout the nation have encouraged me to run," proclaimed Patrick modestly in Kansas City.

Note: About 125 persons attended the Patriotic Party convention in Kansas City.

New Canal Treaties

Difficulties in U.S. Senate And Panama's Legislature

By WILLIAM MONTALBANO

Chicago Daily News Service

PANAMA CITY, Panama, July 18 — Negotiated accord on new canal treaties by the United States and Panama has honorably overcome the major roadblock to good government-to-government relations between the two countries.

On two other levels, however—the political and personal—the task if only just beginning.

Agreement on the form and content of three separate but closely related treaties covering the revised operations of the present canal, a possible future sea level canal, and the continued defense of the canal, was announced June 26.

Although the terms are still officially secret, it is known that the treaties are favorable to Panama, long-sought Panamanian Sovereignty is acknowledged over the Canal Zone for the first time, and greatly increased revenue to Panama is provided for.

In real terms, however, the success of the treaties, no matter how fair or just they might be, hinges on the imponderable public reaction to them.

This in turn could have profound effect in determining whether the current era of prosperity Panama is experiencing will continue.

Panama's rate of growth has averaged about eight per cent over the last several years, one of the most outstanding in Latin America. With added government revenues from the canal, and projected entry into the Central American Common Market, Panama has good prospects it can continue to develop at the same healthy pace.

If there is disorder and violence over the treaties—a possibility never remote enough in Panama to be ignored—just the reverse could be the case, with potential new investors frightened off. Politically, there is the problem of the Ultra-Nationalists, both in the United States and Panama, but most importantly, 8, Panama.

In Panama these people consider that it is outrageous for the U. S. flag to fly anywhere in "The National Breeze" and insist that negotiation of the new treaties in English was "an abdication of national sovereignty."

'National Psychosis'

Rationality has never been a long suit for Panamanians. One observer suggests that Panama has been so deeply concerned with the canal to the exclusion of all else for so long that a "national psychosis" has resulted.

There is also the feeling in some quarters that no matter how liberal the treaty might be there will be Panamanians who insist it doesn't go far enough.

"It's like poker. The ante goes up all the time," said one foreign diplomat.

"Panama's the little guy with a chip on his shoulder accusing the biggest guy on the block" commented a bright young Panamanian economist educated in the United States. "No matter how well-intentioned the big guy is, it's hard for him to understand the little guy. It's hard for the U. S. which has so many other things to worry about, to understand just how intensely we care about the canal."

A cabinet minister noted wryly: "The treaties should be judged strictly on their merits, completely outside of politics. It's impossible, of course, but that's how it should be done."

Compounding the run-of-the-mill fervor in Panama over anything to do with the canal is the fact that presidential elections are scheduled for next year and the campaign — already late in starting — will center entirely around the treaties.

Not to oppose the treaties would be political suicide for the opposition. And opposition leaders have insisted throughout the course of the protracted negotiations they consider any treaty concluded by the government of President Marco A. Robles to be illegal. They argue the government itself is illegal, since they charge it came to power by falsifying election returns.

How strong the opposition to the treaties will be in the Panamanian National Assembly, which must approve them, remains to be seen.

In the United States, there is opposition in both houses of Congress among those who reject President Johnson's original decision to open negotiations to replace the U.S. imposed 1903 treaty under which the canal is currently governed.

The Senate must approve the new treaties after the President signs them. Rejection by the Senate at this late stage of the game would trigger bloodshed in Panama as surely as night follows day.

On the personal level, the problem is just as knotty. Mistrust, suspicion, and an absolute lack of good will are the hallmarks of relations between Panamanians and Americans who live in the canal zone.

Going from Panama to the canal zone is literally to leap, by crossing a street, from a developing Latin American Nation with all its problems and achievements, to a sedate, homogenized U.S. suburb.

About 4,000 American canal workers and their families, along with some Panamanian workers and more than 11,000 U.S. military personnel, live in the zone which is 10 miles across and about 50 miles long from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Some 16 per cent of the Zonians, as the U.S. workers call themselves, are second or third generation.

Residents in the Zone live well, want for nothing. There are special stores, schools, hospitals, all run by the Panama Canal Company. Wages are U.S.-standard, plus a 15 per cent overseas allowance. The disparity between living standards in the zone and in developing Panama inevitably produces friction.

The Zonians take a tremendous pride in running the canal—a difficult job well done. The relations between a Zonian and the canal is something like that between a sailor and his ship. But the Zonians are islanders, really, cut off from the mainstream of both American and Panamanian society.

There are third generation Zonians who speak no Spanish, because there is no need to speak Spanish in the zone.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Richard M. Nixon, who sees himself as a master of political timing, simply has no intention of speeding up his campaign for the 1968 presidential nomination to meet the developing conservative threat from Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

In fact, Nixon aides say they are puzzled over the origin of the speed-up reports, as they profess to be equally bewildered over what they insist are incorrect reports of secret regional Nixon meetings in New York and alleged Nixon efforts to woo Mayor John Lindsay of New York City.

The word is that Nixon is sticking to his original plan and pace, which calls for magazine writing on his 80,000 miles of foreign travel this year, strategy talks and other quiet endeavors in July and August. Not until September are any hard, overt moves expected from the candidate himself.

This restrained summer pace by Nixon does not, of course, restrict his top lieutenants, who are reasonably busy. Dr. Gaylor Parkinson, chief of his Washington-based national operation, has just wound up a week of scouting in New Hampshire, scene of 1968's first presidential primary next March 12.

Nixon operatives are also active in Wisconsin and, as has been well-reported, they include political associates of Gov. Warren Knowles — though Knowles himself is said to be playing it cool.

Earlier judgments placing him in the camp of Gov. George Romney of Michigan seem premature.

There is some stirring for Nixon in yet another primary state—Nebraska. GOP Gov. Norbert Tiemann, himself is officially uncommitted though variously reported as leaning to both Nixon and Romney, said in late June he believes Nixon would win the Nebraska test even with Reagan dividing the conservative vote.

To some extent, however, this activity in vital 1968 primary testing grounds is misleading. Spot checks suggest that there is almost nothing doing for Nixon in many important areas around the country. This is a general impression gained by numerous traveling political observers and can be confirmed specifically in such midwestern states as Iowa and Minnesota.

Urge Filing for Vols Parade

Fire companies planning to participate in the annual firemen's parade at Ellenville Saturday, Sept. 9, have been requested to send in their application promptly so that the Parade Committee may prepare the line of march. Companies will be placed in line in the order in which applications are filed.

To date 35 fire companies and auxiliaries have filed applications. The parade will start at 4 p. m.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, with the Ellenville convention committee and the auditing committee, was held Thursday night at Pioneer Engine house in Ellenville to discuss plans for the annual convention and parade. Morton Finch, chairman of the board of directors, presided. Attending the meeting were President Robert Kuhar, Merrill Williams, Charles Burger and Sherwood Curry, members of the fund-raising committee; William Hornsberger of the entertainment and banquet committee; Robert Madden and Bernard Distel, of the parade committee, and George Garrison, treasurer.

The entertainment and banquet committee reported four acts of vaudeville had been secured for the night of the banquet, September 7. August 21 was set as the deadline for making reservations for the banquet. Other business pertaining to the parade was discussed as well.

Retardation Topic Heard by Kiwanis

"Three out of every 100 persons is mentally handicapped," said Edward R. Crosby, principal of the Lake Katrine Elementary School and a member of the New York State Association for Retarded Children, in speaking before the Kingston Kiwanis Club this week on the subject of "Mental Retardation."

Crosby, a graduate of Kingston High School, the State Teacher's College at New Paltz, and Columbia University, pointed to the present day opportunities for the mentally retarded through special schooling and recreational programs.

Years ago the mentally retarded children were hidden, said the speaker, but now through the efforts of volunteers and the local school system these children "learn to God-given capacity." Kingston was one of the first communities in the Hudson Valley to project such a program, said Crosby.

Described as a "shocking number," the Kiwanians were told that approximately 500,000 people in the state were mentally handicapped. Locally children up to 21 years of age, with an IQ of zero to 50, were being helped.

A need for clinics for the mentally retarded was stressed, along with the fact that children of two years of age were attending a daily training center in preparation for further schooling locally.

The possibility of a tri-county workshop, possibly in Ellenville, was projected by Crosby to take care of the mentally retarded over 21 years of age. He stated that these people needed help "from birth to death" but did not want charity. He also emphasized that in many cases the mentally retarded could accomplish some work better than those who had no mental handicap "because mentally retarded people's minds do not wander." He said "they wanted to be self employed and self respecting, and not the object of charity."

"Training possibilities are great and the opportunities for employment are coming up," said Crosby who revealed that even summer camps are operated locally where the mentally retarded can learn in conjunction with persons of their own abilities.

In conclusion, Edward R. Crosby suggested that the State of New York needs a special commissioner for mental retardation, that the 5,000 bed hospitals are too large for the purpose, and that facilities are needed for community residents from 300 to 500 mentally retarded people.

Orange County Fair Fetes Vols July 30

Orange County firemen and their families are in store for a day of fun and prizes on July 30 at the Orange County Fair. Firemen's Day at the Fair was revived last year and a most successful and fun-filled day greeted the large turn out.

The Fair Association sponsors many of the awards of cash and trophies as will the Hudson Valley Vikings Professional Football Club. Chairman of the event, former Middletown Fire Chief, Edwin R. Moulton says the attempt is being made to keep the entertainment away from a fire theme since once in a while a fireman and his family like to participate in something else.

Admission to the fair is free on July 30 from opening time until 1 p. m. After that time, firemen and Auxiliary members, in uniform will be admitted free with half price for those out of uniform.

The grandstand events will begin at 2 p. m. with a parade of all companies present in order that judges may count the company with the most men and women present. Cash awards and trophies will be presented to the winners by Al Howard, general manager of the Fair.

The U.S. See Bee Drill Team will appear for the enjoyment of the fire people and the loveable monkeys from the monkey show will bring a laugh.

Kingston Man Has Lottery Tix

The final phase of selecting the winning ticket holders of June lottery came to a close Friday afternoon, but before it ended Kingston resident Leroy T. Lasher was added to the ranks.

For the 72 year old former railroader it has all been pretty confusing. He confessed this morning, "First," he said, "the newspaper in Newburgh called and informed me that my name had been drawn. I kind of thought it was a hoax. And then this morning the local radio station made no mention that my name was among the winners. But if you say I am on the list I can tell you it feels pretty good."

He added, "It doesn't really matter how much I win. It will help anyway whether it be $150 or $100,000. You see I ruptured a disc and my medical prescription bills have been pretty expensive. Medicare doesn't pay for prescriptions you know."

Mr. Lasher noted he had purchased eight tickets for the lottery.

For more than 30 years he was employed in the freight yards. Today he is retired and admitted "... It would be nice to win a lot of money."

In addition to Mr. Lasher Dutchess County recorded two winners also. They are Frank A. Zimmerman, 251 Church St., Poughkeepsie and Johnny Mahoney, 31 Sunrise Lane, Poughkeepsie.

City Firemen Save Child

Quick action by city firemen early this morning may have saved the life of a Hasbrouck Avenue child.

Firemen responded to a telephone alarm at 5:35 a. m. and found Theresa Schalk, 6, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Schalk of 328 Hasbrouck Avenue, suffocating.

Deputy Chief Glenn Southard applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, reviving the child. Firemen Frank Ostrander and John Berardi then administered oxygen.

Theresa was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance, treated and released. She was reportedly a victim of an epileptic attack.

You're in Stride With the Times if You Want Surgeon or Diplomat for a Husband Unmarried women questioned on what kind of man they'd most like to marry turned thumbs down on salesmen and dentists, hoping that a brain surgeon or diplomat would come their way.

A survey asking both single and married women to describe the qualities a "perfect husband" should possess, revealed a surprising indifference to wealth and handsomeness, according to an article in the current issue of McCall's.

"That a good husband automatically means a good father was insisted on by all," the article said. Many married women explained they chose their husbands on "the conviction that they'd make good fathers."

"When I got married, I was looking for a solid, reliable man," one mother of three said. "Those Zorba the Greek types are marvelous, but I always knew they weren't about to get up at two in the morning with a sick kid."

Where to Work

A surprising number of unmarried women specified fields in which their husbands should properly work. Brain surgery, the diplomatic corps, writing, film directing and architecture were the most popular fields. But for no reason that is immediately apparent, the two job classifications most often mentioned as unacceptable were salesman and dentist.

The group interviewed, which included secretaries, students, schoolteachers, dancers and a yoga teacher, described extremely handsome men as "vain" and hard to live with. In addition, said one girl, "I'd rather have people say, 'I wonder what she sees in him,' than 'I wonder what he sees in her.'"

None of the single women felt that a good husband should be rich, and some thought that "inherited wealth" makes a man "unattractive." As one young woman explained, "There's something about maturity that comes through adversity. If you don't suffer a little, you never stop being a kid."

That a husband should be taller than his wife was a fact that tall girls felt strongly about, although one said: "I don't think I'd like bending down all the time to hear what my husband was saying. But maybe if I found a short man with a loud voice."

According to the article, most of the married women claimed they didn't marry the man they had been most in love with. On the other hand, "many unmarried girls were conscientiously waiting for the arrival of their own true loves."

One such hopeful was a twenty-two-year-old secretary who told her questioner, "I'm willing to give him until I'm twenty-six, but if he hasn't shown up by then, nuts to him."

AN OPEN LETTER To: All members Kingston Recreation Committee Ladies and Gentlemen:

There were a couple of happenings at Dietz Stadium Thursday night which might be of interest to you.

In one instance, a batted ball rolled "dead" in the deep, lush grass in the area between the pitcher's mound and first base. The official scorer had no recourse but to score it a "hit," even though you and I know that deep, lush grass is more normally associated with golf courses than baseball infields.

In that same inning, Dave Horton, a highly skilled Kingston Braves outfielder, completely "lost" a routine fly ball to his sector of the field.

It is more than mere coincidence that 24 of the stadium lighting bulbs were not functioning at the time. The game before 11 bulbs were out, indicating a steady deterioration of this antiquated, 25-year-old system.

I FEEL THAT THE SYSTEM, installed in 1942 at virtually no cost to the City of Kingston, has justified its cost many times over. It was built for approximately $14,000 and it didn't cost the taxpayers of Kingston a dime. All but a few dollars of the financial outlay was paid off by the Kingston Recreation Baseball Committee, a group of local baseball-minded citizens who worked with Sidney G. Lutzin, then Superintendent of Recreation.

And this is how it happened:

This group organized and promoted the Kingston Recs, second only to the original Kingston Colonials in the long history of city baseball. Addison Jones, the most spirited member of the committee, pressed for the installation of a lighting system. He foresaw the end of "daylight" ball in small towns. Other members some of whom preferred covered stands over a lighting system, were finally won over by Jones.

In addition to Lutzin and Jones, the committee included three persons now deceased (Alderman-At-Large Paul Zucca, Jack Robins and Ed Coughlin), Nick Kaslich and Bob Murray. City Engineer James G. Norton was ex-officio and I served as committee secretary and recruited ball players.

It would be tampering with history to say the city administration enthusiastically endorsed the idea of underwriting cost of the project. When it was evident the city would not budge, Ad Jones prevailed upon committee to take the big plunge. They pledged to pay off the light bonds from the profits of the thriving Kingston Recs—and they did.

NOW 25 YEARS LATER WHEN the City of Kingston has done not much more than replace worn out light bulbs, we think it is time for a complete refinishing project at the uptown park. We appeal to you as an influential entity of the city administration to throw the weight of your influence behind such a project. It is too late to think in terms of 1967, but I feel cost estimates should be made to determine the amount needed to upgrade the lighting system to a modern facility in 1968.

I am told that all reflectors should be replaced, additional rows of lights be installed on some poles perhaps a couple added and the whole system re-focused. Whatever the final tab, it can be justified. Dietz stadium is the last stronghold of baseball left in our city and it is used by the Kingston Braves, City Baseball League, American Legion and the Babe Ruth League.

I believe, too, that the City of Kingston should charge the Kingston Consolidated School System a realistic annual rental fee for use of Dietz Stadium. These rental fees could be applied to improvements and maintenance of the stadium.

THE PRESENT SITUATION AT DIETZ STADIUM isn't something that happened overnight. It has been a steady deterioration and the present city administration cannot be held accountable for the indifference and neglect of previous administrations (both Republican and Democratic) which led to the shabby decline of the stadium installation. All must share the blame. For too many years, our administrations have been vaguely aware that there was a lighting system there; perhaps the income did not meet expectations and maybe somehow things would work out.

When an individual or enterprise pays the rental fee for Dietz stadium, it is entitled to complete services. There hasn't been a baseball scoreboard, no matter how modest, at the ball park for several years. The public address system also needs updating. Maintenance of the baseball diamond could be sharply improved.

PLAYING UNDER THE DIETZ LIGHTS these days is no laughing matter. Players are risking life and limb to perform before meagre crowds in our era of TV baseball. We cannot be too proud about the steady decline of baseball facilities in our community. Dietz Stadium must be maintained as the last, legitimate baseball diamond in the city.

We're not quarrelling with the fact that the city has committed itself to a $20,000 lighting complex primarily for softball at Block Park, even though the last time we checked there were only four organized softball teams in the whole city. But I enthusiastically endorse the project because I feel it will result in a softball boom and elevate the game to one of the major participant sports in the city. That is in the future, but baseball is here now in substantial quantity. In conclusion may I once again reiterate my strong conviction that the project at Dietz Stadium is not only necessary but absolutely justified. I am sure the baseball players of Kingston would be encouraged and heartened by any indication on your part that you will help bring about these much needed improvements.

I hope you share with me the feeling that something must be done to eliminate what I consider a municipal disgrace.

Sincerely,
CHARLES J. TIANO

Veale Pitches Bucs Past Houston, 9-1

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
When Bob Veale's got rhythm, who could ask for anything more?

Veale, Pittsburgh's enigmatic pitching ace, didn't miss a beat Friday night in firing a three-hitter for his first complete game since April 28 as the Pirates danced past the Houston Astros 9-1.

"I had rhythm tonight for a change," said the 6-foot-6 fireballer, who had failed to finish in 15 straight starts before taming the Astros. "If you got good rhythm, you go good control. Without rhythm, you have nothing."

While Veale called the tune against Houston, the Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco 5-4 in 12 innings and crept within one game of the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals, who bowed to Atlanta 4-1. Philadelphia overtook Cincinnati 5-3 and Los Angeles blanked the New York Mets 3-0 in other games.

Veale's route-going victory boosted his season record to 11-4 and lifted the struggling Pirates to 45-44. They trail St. Louis by 7½ games.

The 31-year-old left-hander struck out 10 and walked three. He had issued 15 walks in his last two starts.

Loses Shutout
Veale lost a shutout in the ninth inning on an unearned run. Maury Wills booted Jim Wynn's grounder and Rusty Staub, who had two of the Astros' hits, followed with a double before Wynn scored on an infield out.

By then, however, the Pirates had it wrapped up. Bill Mazeroski drilled three hits, scored twice and drove in a run; Manny Mota delivered two runs with a homer and triple, and Roberto Clemente, back in the line-up after missing four games with a sore knee, smashed a two-run triple to key Pittsburgh's 15-hit attack.

The Cubs closed in on first place again by snapping a 4-4 tie in the 12th on a walk, a sacrifice, an intentional pass and Willie McCovey's two-base throwing error. The Giants' first baseman threw wildly past second on an attempted force, allowing Al Spangler to score the winning run.

Willie Mays, playing for the first time in a week after a flu siege, sent the Giants ahead 4-3 with a sacrifice fly in the seventh, but the Cubs tied it in the bottom of the inning on Ernie Banks' RBI single.

Eleven pitchers got into the game, with Cal Koonce, the fifth Chicago hurler, getting the victory and Ron Herbel taking the loss.

Hank Aaron smacked a two-run homer and Cleve Boyer drove in two runs with a homer and sacrifice fly as the Braves rolled to their 10th victory in the last 14 games behind Phil Niekro's six-hitter.

Aaron and Boyer homered in the fourth inning against Nelson Briles, making his first start for the league leaders.

Gary Sutherland knocked in two runs in the eighth with a two-out single and Tony Taylor's infield hit delivered an insurance tally for the Phils, who erased a 3-2 Cincinnati lead after Tommy Helms' error opened the gates.

Helms booted a double play grounder with one out before Sutherland's first hit since June 28 sent the Reds down to their third straight loss.

Rookie Bill Singer and reliever Phil Regan combined for a six-hit shutout as the Dodgers withstood New York's first challenge in the battle for eighth place.

Wilbur Wood Saves Chisox AL Margin

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Chicago White Sox can knock on wood that they called on Wood, whose relief as a starter kept them in first place in the American League.

A left-handed reliever who gets lost in the bullpen with the wealth of Chicago hurlers, Wilbur Wood seems to have found himself as a starter, winning the only two games the Sox have captured in their last six.

Wood, who put the knock on Jim Hunter and Kansas City last Sunday in his first start in the major leagues since 1965, did it again Friday night as the White Sox edged the A's 5-4.

Without those victories, Chicago's 1½-game lead over Boston would have melted into a half-game deficit and a second-place standing.

The surprising Red Sox took over the runner-up spot by topping Cleveland 6-2 for their seventh straight triumph. Minnesota fell to third when red-hot California beat the sinking Twins 2-1 for their fourth straight victory and 31st in 43 games.

Detroit kept pace by beating the New York Yankees 4-2 while streaking Washington dealt Baltimore a double defeat, 4-3 and 3-1, taking sixth place from Cleveland with their 11th victory in 13 games.

Wood, whose only two victories without a loss—he has three saves in relief—have come in those starts, gave the Sox 7 2-3 innings Friday, allowing only six hits and two runs, only one earned.

Ace reliever Hoyt Wilhelm bailed him out in the eighth, but needed help in the ninth from Bob Locker, the other bullpen workhorse, who got the last out after the A's scored twice.

The 25-year-old Wood, bought from Columbus after mediocre tries as a relief man for Boston and Pittsburgh where he won a Coleman of one game, lowered his earned run average to 1.39 in 28 games as the replacement for sore-armed Jim O'Toole.

Causes Snaps Tie
Wayne Causey, who had only three hits off his former Kansas City mates in 1½ years since he was traded, provided Wood with working room as he snapped a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring triple in the fifth inning off Hunter and then scored on Pete Ward's hit.

Causey then singled in the decisive run in the ninth inning. Joe Foy enlivened Boston's attack with a three-run homer in the third inning off Luis Tiant that provided enough runs for Darrell Brandon, who scattered eight hits, including a two-run homer by Leon Wagner in the eighth.

California, only 3½ games back in fourth place, got a fourth-inning run on Bobby Knop's double and the decisive marker in the fifth when Dave Boswell walked in a run.

George Brunet, winning for the eighth time in 11 decisions, shutout the Twins until Harmon Killebrew's 28th homer in the ninth. Two more runners got on before Minne Rojas struck out Rich Reese saving his 15th game and dropping the Twins two games out.

Willie Horton, bothered by a chronic achilles tendon, still managed three hits that drove in two runs and scored once before he left for a pinch runner as Detroit handed the Yankees their fifth straight loss.

Denny McLain had a four-hit shutout entering the eighth, but needed clutch relief help from Mike Marshall before he got the victory.

Cap Peterson completed Washington's sweep with a three-run double in the eighth inning of the nightcap, ending a three-game duel between Joe 126SPT lbylyxysuec18 eg22

An operation is scheduled today. It will be three weeks before the results are known and another six to eight weeks before doctors decide whether Chualo can fight again, Ungerman said.

Stokes, Harris To Meet Monday

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—World's welterweight champion Curtis Stokes will defend his title against Gypsy Joe Harris here Monday night and there will be a sellout crowd because of the controversy swirling around it.

Promoter Kenneth Hayles said today.

Hayles already has Harris en route back to Dallas from Philadelphia, where he had gone Wednesday after the Texas Boxing Commission canceled the fight for irregularities in its promotion.

But a district judge at Austin, headquarters of the commission, Friday knocked out Commissioner Charles King's order canceling the fight and suspending the promoter's license of the Greater Dallas Sports Association, of which Hayles is co-promoter.

Then Hayles announced the fight would go on as originally scheduled.

Memorial Auditorium where the 15-round fight is scheduled, seats more than 10,000.

The trouble arose when Lord demanded of Hayles that he pay all of the $35,000 Cokes was supposed to get in his title defense here May 19 against Francois Pavilla of France.

Lord also wanted placed in escrow the $35,000 Cokes had been offered to fight Harris, the man who won a nontitle scrap from Cokes in New York in March.

The unbeaten Harris is ranked second by the World Boxing Association.

Miss Casals In Net Finals

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Young virtuoso Rosemary Casals, playing with well tempered nerve and style, has swung her way into the finals of the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament opposite defending champion Nancy Richey.

The grandniece of the famed cellist, Pablo Casals, advanced with a semifinal 6-4, 6-4 victory Friday over top-seeded Billie Jean King, the world's ranking women's player and Miss Casals' doubles partner.

The second-seeded Miss Richey, San Angelo, Tex., seeking an unprecedented fifth straight title moved into the championship match with a 6-1, 7-5 triumph over Australia's Kerry Melville, top-seeded foreigner. The match turned on a disputed point.

Top-seeded Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va., the nation's ranking men's player, moved into the semifinals opposite Brazil's Ron Barnes with a 6-1, 6-3, 7-5 victory over unseeded Australian John Cooper, third-seeded foreigner.

Barnes, second-seeded foreigner, struggled through to a lackluster 6-8 8-6, 6-3 6-8, 6-1 victory over unseeded George Seagen of New York and Rice University.

The other semifinalists are Canada's Mike Belkin, fourth-seeded foreigner who upset defending champion and second-seeded Cliff Richey Thursday, and fourth-seeded Marty Riesen, Evanston, Ill., winner Thursday over top-seeded foreigner, Ray Ruffels, Australia.

Using a blend of the soft and hard, the 18-year-old Miss Casals, of San Francisco, controlled the tempo of the game and took advantage of repeated lapses by the Wimbledon queen.

School Board to Dispose Of 3 District Buildings

The Board of Education of Saugerties Central Schools has begun action to dispose of the Cedar Grove, Saxton and Katsbaan school houses in response to a petition from residents in the Cedar Grove area.

School Attorney Morris Rosenblum is preparing documents prior to publication of legal notices. Voters of each district will meet at the respective school houses to determine property disposition. If the properties are sold, proceeds of the sale will be prorated among the taxpayers of each former district.

Incomplete or unsatisfactory work standing in the way of Board acceptance of the Morse School and the Junior High School addition was discussed with Architect Albert E. Milliken. A compromise was reached with the C. B. Strain Company concerning the responsibility for construction of a fence around the lagoon at the Morse School. Formal resolution to start the machinery for the bond issue and to authorize the architect to proceed with working plans and drawings for the additions at the Glasco and Mt. Marion Schools were adopted. The Board also approved the application for registration of grades 7, 8, and 9 of the Junior-Senior High School as a separate Junior High School.

Per Pupil Cost Is Lower Than State Average

Per pupil cost in the Saugerties Central School District last year was $744.50, according to a study released by the Bureau of Statistical Services of the New York State Department of Education.

The study provides figures which allow comparison of costs on a per pupil basis determined by weighted average daily attendance for the school year 1965-66.

Total per pupil expenditure for all schools in New York State was $844.87 as compared to $821.83 for central school districts. The study breaks expenditures under functional headings in the school accounting systems required by audit and control.

Commenting on the comparison, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold stated, "We make every effort to keep our costs as low as possible without losing sight of our goal of constantly improving our school system. As we accommodate more and more pupils each year, our costs are bound to increase. Like families and industries, the school business is affected by rising costs and inflation."

Camp Exchange Highlights 1st Series at Wendy

Exchange camping with girls from Ridge-Ho, Bergen Council Girl Scout camp was a highlight of the first encampment at Ulster County Girl Scout Camp Wendy. The girls from Wendy were transported to the New Jersey Council camp which is located in the Minnewaska area. Each patrol pitched its own tent and set up camp. From Wednesday morning until Friday, they hiked, cooked their meals, sang around evening campfires, and swam in cool mountain streams.

In turn, a bicycling group from Ridge-Ho came to Wendy to camp overnight. Burning of the old flag, burying the ashes under the new flag pole, flying of the new flag, and the placement of an International flagpole to display the colors of Sweden and Germany, homelands of the two International counselors were part of a two-day patriotic celebration.

Pioneer and Romany units also had opportunities for overnight camping during this period, the first to the DuBois property, and the other to the Garrison farm, for early morning milking time.

During this encampment, the Board of Directors of the Community Chest Board were entertained at dinner and a tour of the camp-site, to see Girl Scout camping in action.

Troop and stay camping was introduced at Camp Wendy for the first time this summer. During this first period, two troops from the Kingston and Hurley areas, under the leadership of Mrs. Leo Notari and Mrs. John Walker had the opportunity to enjoy the full camp program, using all staff and facilities of the camp, but under their own troop leadership. Camp Wendy, at Wallkill, is operated by the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, one of the 13 agencies receiving support from the Ulster County Community Chest.

Lake Hill Firemen Using Workable Number System

To bring confusing information to a halt, and possibly save lives and property, Woodstock Fire Company No. 3 of Lake Hill has instituted a fire numbering system which has been in effect for two years. There has been no loss of life in the Company's territory, and property losses have been held to a minimum. Prompt response to a call for help has been the result of the system.

A map of the territory, a card index system containing necessary information, and individual signs numbering each structure in the area are the basic tools for the system. The listing of the structure numbers is available at the firehouse and at fire headquarters in Woodstock, where the central dispatcher has access to pass on the information when reporting a fire.

And now the information is passed on over a Plectron system with units available in the firehouse and the homes of the three officers of the Lake Hill company. Thus the central dispatcher can talk directly to the firemen and officers in describing the location of the fire.

It works like this: A person discovers a fire and immediately calls in to the central dispatcher—stating the fire number which is plainly displayed at the entrance to the property—a red sign with white letters.

The person tells the dispatcher that there is a fire at U-6. Immediately the dispatcher activates the siren of the Lake Hill company—calling the firemen to the firehouse.

The dispatcher also announces over the Plectron system, three times, the fire number, and any other information that might be available.

The map is a large one showing the entire territory served by Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3. It is divided into sections, and each section has a letter of the alphabet to designate that particular section. Each structure also appears on this map with a number along side of the designation. In the case of the reported number, U 6, it is determined that the letter U designates a territory known as Hutchin Hill, and 6 is the sixth house on that road from the direction of the firehouse.

Further identify U 6, its location on the road, how to get to the place from the firehouse, what type of building it is, and what water is available in the vicinity. The idea of available water is important because it gives a fire officer the opportunity to plan his attack while he is heading for the fire, thus he can move quickly upon arrival.

And the driver of the apparatus travels along the Hutchin Hill road looking for the red fire sign with U 6. If the fire is a small one, inside the building, there may be nothing to indicate a fire showing to the driver.

Note Over $600 In Mail Appeal, Salvation Army
Elber Varney, treasurer of the Salvation Army Fund for Woodstock and surrounding area, reports that more than $600 has been received to date on the 1967 Summer Mail Appeal which began June 20.

Varney explained that the Salvation Army is not having an organized campaign this year as they have for the past few years since they are affiliating with the Ulster County Community Chest whose campaign will be conducted in October to supply funds for the various member agencies for their 1968 budgets.

He added that the funds received in the current mail appeal will be for the budget of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30. Arrangements are being made for several boys and girls of the Woodstock area to be sent to the Salvation Army Youth Camp located in the Adirondack Mountains near Glens Falls. This is a resident camp for boys and girls between the ages of 1 and 14 who can benefit by a ten-day period at the camp.

Members of the Woodstock committee are James Myers, chairman; Elbert Varney, treasurer; Mrs. Malcolm Rose, welfare secretary; Gordon Anderson; the Rev. James Cook; J. M. Doremus and Mrs. Kiki Minerzini.

The Committee is hopeful that those who have not responded to this appeal will do so at an early date.

General to Retire

Major General T. R. Yancey, Commanding General, II United States Army Corps, and Commanding General of Fort Hamilton-Fort Wadsworth, will retire July 31.

On that date, General Yancey, who assumed command of II Corps, Sept. 17, 1965, will move to Williamsburg, Va., where he and Mrs. Yancey are building a home.

General Yancey, a native of Missouri, was commissioned a second lieutenant shortly after he graduated with a master of arts degree from Missouri University in 1937.

David Glasgow Farragut was the first admiral of the U.S. Navy, in 1866.

Dear Abby

Good Taste Is Timeless

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me, or is it "the times?"

I am a widow with a small circle of married friends. Every once in a while someone will invite me to their home to see movies of a wedding, confirmation, or a vacation trip. Then without warning, they show some movies (rented) that were made for stag parties, (stripteasers and "dirty" movies). I'm sure you know what I mean.

Everyone laughs and thinks it's great fun, but I am irked. I don't want to be a "wet blanket" or a "party pooper" by conspicuously walking out when they spring surprise movies on the crowd, but I don't care for this kind of stuff at all. Any solutions?

DEAR WET: There is nothing wrong with you, nor is it "the times." Good taste is timeless. If your "little circle" of friends cannot be trusted to keep the entertainment clean make a bigger circle.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years and I am just about ready to leave him for what I hope you won't think is a silly reason. I just can't take his "teasing" any more. He is always punching me, or pinching me, or squeezing the breath out of me.

Abby, I have tried to tell him I don't like such rough treatment, but he laughs and says they are only "love pats," and he keeps right on hurting me. If you were to see some of the bruises I carry from his "love pats" you would think we had been in a terrible fight.

I have begged and pleaded and even cried, but nothing works. Have you any words of advice? It's getting where I hate to see him come home at night.

MANHANDLED: DEAR MANHANDLED: His "love pats" are conscious, or more likely unconscious acts of hostility and aggression which have nothing to do with "love," and are ruining your relationship.

Tell him so, and implore him to seek out professional help.

If he refuses, prepare for a break before there are children.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I just can't stand dirt and filth. Ever since my son got married he has had to live in dirt. Believe me, my home was never like that.

His wife gets up around noon, eats a big breakfast, lights a cigarette, and sits down to watch TV all day. She even takes the phone off the hook so nobody can disturb her.

When her husband comes home there is no supper in sight. The beds aren't even made yet. She has him trained pretty good. He walks in the house carrying a sack full of groceries because he knows there's nothing to eat. Then he has to fix the supper for both of them.

You can't tell this girl anything. She is dumb and lazy. I've seen her laundry hanging on the line for three days. Boy, what a prize my son got. How do you propose he get this fat, lazy girl off her rocking chair? He's the peaceful type. He doesn't like fights.

HIS MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: When your son gets fed up enough with things the way they are, he'll think of something. And until then... it's his problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "YOUNG AND IN TROUBLE": Tell your parents at once. I promise you they will not throw you out of the house. In times of serious trouble, no matter what they have said in the past, parents are your best friends and will do what is best for you.

Troubled, Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridge South's Squeeze Works Smoothly

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The late Edward Hynes was just about as good a dummy player as there ever has been. In addition Eddie was somewhat of a show-off when he could afford to be.

He sat South and let West's king of spades hold the first trick. This gave up the over-trick if hearts and diamonds both broke 3-3 but Eddie had bid six, not seven. He didn't think that West would continue the suit but stranger things have happened and a spade continuation would give him 12 tricks in high cards.

West didn't fall into that trap. He shifted to the lack of diamonds. Eddie won with dummy's king and led the ace of diamonds. West discarded a spade. Eddie thought awhile and claimed the balance of the tricks. He said, "Perfect squeeze, if I need it."

East and West both protested so Eddie showed his hand and played it out as fast as he could get his opponents to play.

He ran off four club tricks, discarding his six of hearts. Each opponent had no trouble discarding on that trick. West threw a spade; East a diamond.

Then Eddie led to his queen of diamonds. West was down to queen-ten of spades, and four hearts but he discarded a heart as nonchalantly as he could.

could considering that it was just as if Eddie had pulled his last tooth.

Eddie remarked to West, "I don't know if you have already been squeezed or not but you can't have more than three hearts, come what may. I am now going to lead my ace of spades. If East started with one spade, four hearts; five diamonds and three clubs this will force him to jettison his own heart stopper."

"O.K.," said West. "We can concede."

Outlines Work With Carson

By ED MCMAHON

For Cynthia Lowery

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ed McMahon's star has been hitched to Johnny Carson's wagon for the past 10 years—as announcer and often straight man for the comedian. Ed also is host on NBC's new daytime game show, "Snap Judgment." Here he writes, with considerable awe, about Johnny's activities.

NEW YORK (AP) — People always ask that question: "What is Johnny Carson like?" Here goes:
 There has to be something a little nuts about a guy who wants to free-fall from an airplane holding the title cards for the "Tonight Show" with a movie photographer free-falling beside him filming an opening for the show. We talked him out of it.

Played Football

He has played football with the Jets—he suited up and scrimmaged with them. He pitched once to the leadoff man of the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

He scuba-dived off Freeport, Grand Bahama. He did some stage flying in a Peter Pan rig. He did a hand-over-hand peg climb some 20 feet up a wall.

He has had ice cream to a 300-pound jaguar. He has done a Twigg imitation with a wrap-around boa, only this boa was a boa constrictor, still living and looking hungry to me. He even allowed an American bald eagle to perch on his shoulder.

He learned bravery early, at the age of 16, when he was doing a magic act as The Great Carsoni. Rumor says the act was done from the back of a moving truck.

He can still do magic. On the "Tonight Show" he recreated his old magic act and did a splendid job. He's a ventriloquist and handles cards like a Mississippi gambler. To this day he sits around his office rolling quarters over his fingers.

Sharpshooter

He handles bow and arrow like a sharpshooter. He can wield a battle ax. He can fly-cast better than anyone I've ever seen.

He can dance a bit, sing a bit, play the guitar a bit—he's practicing all these things. He plays the drums with a surprising amount of confidence.

He is a mentalist. At a Miss Universe pageant, he memorized the names and countries of 99 contestants. When he married (is that the term?) mentalism and cards, he can look at three hands of a bridge game and in an instant tell you the cards of the fourth.

He's a star gazer, and I mean real heavenly bodies, and he uses a telescope. He has learned to fly an airplane.

What is he? He's a perfectionist. He's determined and intent about things. He's outlandish in his demands on himself.

If he had not been a success in television, he would have been a disc jockey doing a marathon seven days in a store window. He would have been a magician saving not just one won- in an half but a whole chorus line. He would have been that Mississippi gambler.

If he isn't a man for all seasons, he is a man of all interests, all hobbies. It's good because it keeps him off the streets, and it keeps him from thinking, much, about free-falling from airplanes.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

A garage man answered the distress call of a woman motorist whose car had stalled. He informed her it was out of gas.

Miss Blank — Will it hurt the car, if I drive it home with the gas tank empty.

The average taxpayer is the first of America's natural resources to be exhausted.

Mother—What did you do in school today?
 Little Eddie—Nothing much. Some woman wanted to know how to spell cat, and I told her.

When a worried-looking man entered a florist shop and asked for potted geraniums, the clerk said:
 Miss Lane — I'm sorry, sir, I'm out of geraniums. How about tulips?
 Mr. Hunt — No, tulips won't do. I promised my wife I'd water her geraniums while she was away.

Prospective Buyer (to auto salesman) — I do a lot of driving in rush-hour traffic jams. I want a car that will really crawl.

Maybe it's called grounds for divorce because of the dirt.

Joe—Why are kisses like the creation?
 Moe — They are made of nothing and are very good.

Don't be a cloud just because you can't be a star.

A traveler walked into the general store in a small crossroads town.
 Mr. Smith—I don't suppose you would have anything in the shape of an automobile tire, would you?
 Zek (the storekeeper)—Yep. Doughnuts, rubber bands, funeral wreaths and life-savers.

Contain 90 PC Silver

Recall Old Dimes, Quarters

BY JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government quietly is withdrawing from circulation some of the old dimes and quarters containing 90 per cent silver.

They could be pumped back in during the Christmas shopping rush this year.

Officials say they have no plans to recall the 90 per cent silver coins in the wake of a Treasury Department decision to free the price of silver from its four-year level of $1.29 an ounce.

They described the new move as a contingency to handle any emergencies which might occur late this year or during 1968.

No announcement of the withdrawal into a coin stockpile has been made but officials said it's been going on for some time.

When silver coins find their way back to a Federal Reserve Bank in their normal course of circulation, officials said, they are held in reserve rather than recirculated.

The new copper-nickel sandwich coins — less likely to be set aside by collectors — are circulated instead.

One official gave three reasons for the move: — To insure a stockpile of coins for possible use during the upcoming Christmas season when the demand for coins reaches its yearly peak.

— To gather a stockpile of silver should the Treasury need it to redeem silver certificates before the redemption deadline next June 30.

— To make certain enough silver is available to satisfy the strategic stockpile quota of 165 million ounces.

Officials emphasize they believe enough new type coins are available to satisfy needs but want an extra safety valve just in case.

The price of silver shot this week to more than $1.80 an ounce after the Treasury last Friday stopped selling it to private industry at $1.29. It now is selling up to 2 million ounces weekly to industry at the going market price.

The idea in maintaining the price of silver at $1.29 was to preserve the coinage. But officials said enough of the silver-less coins now are available to satisfy needs if the silver content should disappear from circulation.

With the price of silver exceeding $1.80 an ounce the old dimes and quarters are worth more in silver than their face value. The melting point — the price at which the silver content equals the face value — is $1.38 an ounce for the old dimes, quarters and half dollars and $1.29 for silver dollars.

But since half dollars still are in short supply there is little use in trying to stockpile them.

TO RAISE SEEING-EYE PUPS—Six members of Ulster County 4-H Clubs are raising foster puppies in cooperation with a program sponsored by the Guiding Eyes for the Blind of Yorktown Heights. The association provides puppies between six to 10 weeks old to the 4-H youths to raise and care for a 10 to 14 months period. The dogs will later be returned to Guiding Eyes for special training as guide dogs. Purpose of the program is to insure a regular supply of dogs suitable for training as guide dogs. FULL WEEK'S TV LISTINGS FOR WEEK OF JULY 23rd THRU JULY 29th

PREVIEW: Sally Field as "The Flying Nun" comes to ABC this fall. The gentle comedy is about activities at the Convent San Tanco in Puerto Rico. Members of the religious community: Marge Redmond, Madeline Sherwood, Shelly Morrison.

Turn Off Disbelief Before Tuning ABC's Upcoming 'Flying Nun'

By EDGAR PENTON

HOLLYWOOD — Did you ever wish you could fly off into the sky in search of high adventure?

"Impossible," you say. Not necessarily—not if you weigh 90 pounds, wear a broad-brimmed cornette (a type of religious habit headpiece) and of course it helps if the wind in your neighborhood is of just the right velocity.

For proof, it will happen every week to Sally Field (you'll recall her as irrepressible "Gidget"). Sally stars as Sister Bertrille in "The Flying Nun," the new Screen Gems offering airing this fall as a weekly television series, 8-8:30 p. m., Eastern time, Thursday evenings, ABC.

The story line, briefly, is that of a diminutive and very-much-offbeat American nun who arrives at a Puerto Rican convent and finds the problems of adjusting to her new existence complicated by the fact that a high wind literally sends her flying.

However, before you tune in "The Flying Nun," two things are required: first, the willing suspension of disbelief; second, an understanding of the principle, "lift plus thrust."

It's really very simple. If you're a "Peter Pan," "Mary Poppins," "Bewitched" or "I Dream of Jeannie" fan, then you're already practicing the willing suspension of disbelief. It simply means you are charmed and delighted by a story and not likely to ask embarrassing questions about whether it could really happen. As for "lift plus thrust," that's a rule, until now, more familiar to aerospace designers than to television viewers. It goes this way: when lift plus thrust is greater than load plus drag, an object will fly.

Sister Bertrille, you see, wears a headdress with two large sidepieces. Consider the air surface of the flaps of these broad-brimmed cornettes—lift. Next, consider the gale-like high winds which continually blow about the island of Puerto Rico where our story takes place—thrust.

Then picture our small nun, whose 90 pounds of weight do not produce much in the way of load plus drag, and you have it.

"The Flying Nun" is based on a charming book, "The Fifteenth Pelican," by Tere Rios. It was Screen Gems' vice president and executive producer Harry Ackerman who saw its possibilities as a television series and called in Bernard Slade, one of Screen Gems' top comedy writers to prepare a pilot script.

It all begins with the arrival of Sister Bertrille, a new addition to the Convent San Tanco in Puerto Rico. She is 90 pounds of American girl, whose lack of physical size is more than compensated for by an abundance of high spirits and enthusiasm.

Along with numerous misadventures, Sally runs into earthbound complications in her role as Sister Bertrille. She and the dignified mother superior have differences of opinion, and . . . but we're not going to spoil the fun. Wait and watch.

The character of Sister Bertrille comes warmly to life in the person of 20-year-old Sally Field. Sally first came to the attention of Screen Gems when she enrolled at Columbia Studio's Film Industry Workshop after graduating from high school. Ed Foy III, a television casting executive, noticed her perform in class and Sally was tested for the role of "Gidget."

After several months of testing and retesting, she won the part over more than 150 other aspirants.

Before she was selected for her second television series lead, Sally made her movie debut in "The Way West," with Kirk Douglas and Robert Mitchum.

Among the other comedy and dramatic talents assembled for various roles in "The Flying Nun" are Marge Redmond, Madeleine Sherwood, Shelley Morrison, and in the only male continuing part, Alejandro Rey.

Marge Redmond, who co-stars as practical-minded Sister Jacqueline, recently portrayed a nun in Columbia's "The Trouble With Angels." Following that, she played a horse-loving math teacher, and more wordy roles in "The Fortune Cookie" and "Out At the Country Club," before she found herself back in habit.

A top comedienne, she has appeared in countless television commercials and series.

Madeline Sherwood brings a severe dignity to the role of the mother superior. She has distinguished herself both on Broadway and in movies as widely different kinds of characters.

Miss Sherwood owns a house in the Laurentian mountains near Montreal, but the home she occupies most frequently is a small Greenwich Village apartment she has maintained for 14 years.

Shelly Morrison portrays Sister Sixto, a Puerto Rican whose favorite leisure time occupation is studying the dictionary of American slang. She enjoys the distinction of having been the youngest female theatrical producer in Hollywood, as well as one of its busiest actresses.

Having studied drama at Los Angeles City College, Shelley turned producer at age 22, and staged productions of "Hamlet," among others. She has since appeared in numerous films and television shows.

The only continuing male role in "The Flying Nun" is that of Carlos, a rich Puerto Rican night club owner and playboy who finds himself reluctantly swept along with Sister Bertrille's enthusiasm for improving conditions at the convent.

Carlos, portrayed by Alejandro Rey, was a top television star in Argentina before coming to Hollywood. One of his best-remembered Hollywood roles is the young Puerto Rican in the "Naked City" episode called "Bringing Far Places Together," selected to represent the United States at the Cannes television film festival.

"SISTER" is mighty handy when the convent's car breaks down. Sally Field, as Sister Bertrille, stars in "The Flying Nun," an ABC Fall Season Offering, 8-8:30 p. m. Thursdays.

In addition to filming on the sound stages, the pilot film was photographed at the Serra Retreat (A Franciscan monastery) in the hills above Malibu and in the city of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Since the people behind the cameras are vital to a production's success, here's a rundown on the folk who'll bring "Flying Nun" to the screen:

Directing the first several shows will be E. W. Swackhamer, who recently served as producer-director on "Love on a Rooftop." "Swack" started out to be an actor. In 1961 he came to Hollywood as an associate producer, director and writer on Jack Cooper's "Hennessey."

He has held the reins on shows such as "Bewitched," "Hazel," "I Dream of Jeannie," "Donna Reed," "Wackiest Ship" and "Gidget."

Producer of the "Flying Nun" is William Sackheim, who as director of program projects at Screen Gems, is a specialist in launching new series, among them "The Donna Reed Show," a co-creation of Sackheim and William Roberts.

Executive Producer Harry Ackerman is a veteran producer of both television and radio. Over the years he has played a major role in the creation and development of such hits as "I Love Lucy," "Our Miss Brooks," and "Gunsmoke." Ackerman is famed particularly as an expert in situation comedy.

Last season Ackerman's top-rated shows included "Bewitched," "Occasional Wife" and "Love on a Rooftop."

With this combination of talents behind and in front of the cameras, plus a reasonable degree of lift plus thrust, the studio hopes to see "The Flying Nun" set altitude records in the rarified atmosphere of the ratings services this coming season.

Ask TV Scout

JOHN & DICK — On the Johnny Carson Show, the credits list the director as Dick Carson. Is he related to Johnny?—G. P., Saginaw, Mich. They are brothers.

SCARY STUFF—I missed a movie called "The Haunting," which all my friends were crazy about because they said it was so scary. Will it be on again?—T.C., Miami, Fla.

"The Haunting," will be repeated on ABC's Sunday Movie, on July 23rd.

SAME NAME—Several years ago Betty White starred in a television series. Do you remember the name?—D. J., Duluth, Minn.

The long-ago series was appropriately titled Elizabeth.

I FOR Y—Isn't it true that Lucille Ball has a daughter who is named Lucy too? — Jane Johnson, Miami, Fla.

Lucy's fifteen-year old daughter spells it a bit differently. She is Lucie Arnaz.

GONE TOMORROW — Our family is in a quandry. A few years ago we all enjoyed 87th Precinct very much, but can only remember the name of one of the four stars on the show, Robert Lansing. Can you help us with the others?—S.F., San Antonio, Texas.

Television is a unique example of the "here today, gone tomorrow" star system. The others were Ron Harper, Gregory Walcott and Norman Fell.

EXECUTIVE SUITE — What-ever happened to Jackie Cooper since his TV series went off? Will he do another? — C. G., Great Falls, Mont.

Jackie is too busy supervising a host of other series. As head of production for one of Hollywood's biggest TV producers and packagers, Screen Gems, Jackie oversees such series as The Monkees, Bewitched, Iron Horse, Occasional Wife and I Dream of Jeannie.

SALLY FIELD flies high as "The Flying Nun," ABC's spot of whimsy for the fall schedule. Air Time: 8-8:30 p. m. Thursday evenings.

See... but No Read

Charles Bickford, who has written his autobiography, thought it would be nice if his book was sold at the souvenir stand at Universal Studios where the tourists stop, since Bickford's series, The Virginian, is filmed there. But the tourists aren't buying too many books. "They're not the type that reads much. At least, looking at them, that seems to be the case," he said. "They tried putting pictures of me up to help the sale of the book, but all that happened was that they stole the pictures."

Blyden Is a Master Of the Quiet Explosion

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK — Larry Blyden is a soft-spoken, unassuming man who sits softly on bursts of explosive enthusiasm that periodically erupt like refined fireworks.

"I really don't know why they chose me for this spot," he said, speaking of his new career as host of the daytime NBC-TV Personality program. He spoke quietly with a matter-of-fact persuasion in his voice, and only a deep-down sparkle in his eyes betrayed him.

"I had a call from my agent who told me they had me in mind to host a game show and I thought he was kidding. I'd never done anything like it before and I wasn't sure if I could do it, or even wanted to."

"But I agreed to talk to the producer, Bob Stewart, and oh, boy, gawd, can that man talk."

"I don't mean like a super salesman, but like a man who knows what he is about and lets you know that he knows."

As he talked on about how he was selected for the show and what he thinks of it, Blyden hardly stirred from the easy chair in his spacious Manhattan apartment. But the thoughts keep bursting out of him.

LARRY BLYDEN

"I did a run-through for him and we hit it off right away. And since then it's been great, just marvelous. I never, never thought I could be working in show business and still have such a great time. It just isn't believable."

These words, coming from the ordinary actor, have to be taken as pure pap. But Blyden is different from the ordinary actor. Looking at him, you can't believe he is an actor at all.

A ribbon clerk perhaps, or on the outside, the reservations clerk at a better class, mid-town motel.

But Blyden has proven his professional skills many times over; in the past as the star of TV's highly acclaimed "What Makes Sammy Run," and presently as the star of the Broadway hit, "The Apple Tree."

The thing he most likes about Personality is that it doesn't require the day-to-day displays of professional abilities.

"It's just plain fun," he says with childlike happiness.

"It is almost impossible to predict other people's real personalities no matter how much you think you know them. And that's the fun."

"Why I've known Florence Henderson for years and years, and I could swear to you that I could pinpoint her personality characteristics with 100 per cent accuracy. And yet I didn't get her on a single point. Unbelievable! No one point."

"It took me 15 years to learn all I know about her, and exactly two minutes to discover why I'm so fond of her."

"I've been in the wrong side of this business all my life."

Maid Service Was Free

NEW YORK — Don't ever make a lunch date with Ryan O'Neal, at least not if you have women in your life, like a wife or girls in the office or female neighbors.

Ryan, currently starring in ABC-TV's Peyton Place, is gifted with that magical masculine mystique that turns women on.

When a lunch date with the sandy-haired star was arranged I suddenly found several women in my life wanting to share the occasion, including a starchy-eyed secretary and a usually blasé wife.

And now I know the meaning of "a woman scorned." Just what this masculine mystique is alludes me — as it does Ryan.

"It's a crazy thing with the girls," the wholesomely handsome star said. "And sometimes it can be very annoying. But there is an old cliché in the business about when they stop chasing you, you're in trouble. So you have to enjoy the chase."

"To me it's a security bit, like money in the bank. When the fans are around, you know your stock is up."

Perhaps the most attractive thing another man can find in Ryan is a combination of his masculinity, and the objective view he takes of his popularity. When he speaks at his following, he seems at times to be talking of someone else.

"American girls can be a little pushy when they want an autograph or a touch of a guy's hair or jacket. But even for the screaming and shouting, they are calm compared to British girls."

"The British fans aren't screamers as much as they are schemers."

"I was over there a little while ago and it seems Peyton Place is very popular and the fans recognized me right away."

"Do you know that two girls actually climbed up the side of the hotel and camped on the ledge outside my window. I don't know how long they were there before we spotted them and pulled them in."

"And the maid service was something else. It seemed that every fifteen minutes or so, a maid would walk right in to take care of some minor detail, even when I was showering, and once when I was napping."

"When I finally got suspicious I learned that they not only were taking turns, but even lending their uniforms to friends just to come barging in."

One of Ryan's big thrills during his trip to England was meeting former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

RYAN O'NEAL

"He was walking down the street and I recognized him and said hello."

"Boxing is my favorite sport, and although I'm not supposed to do much fighting because of the series I still love to get into a ring and go a few rounds."

"And Patterson to me is just the greatest. He may not have the super-skills of someone else, but he combines artistry in motion and sportsmanship in attitude that's too rare today."

"And most of all, he's a gentleman, and there ain't hardly enough of them to go around."

Takes It in Stride

Bickford, in his second year on the series, says he thinks he is still as enthusiastic about The Virginian as he was last year. "I don't find the work difficult. I take it in my stride. I see a lot of the younger guys moaning and groaning, but they're just not used to hard work."

COWPOKE OMAR SHARIF (left), who vaguely resembles The Cisco Kid in his western garb, converses with Gregory Peck and cameramen on desert location of "Mackenna's Gold," a Cinerama flick.

Mideast Accord Is Omar's Hope

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PAGE, Ariz. (NEA) — You don't find too many westerns with an Egyptian heavy and a Swedish leading lady, but that's one of the claims to fame for "Mackenna's Gold." Omar Sharif is the villain and Camilla Sparv is the heroine. This is Sharif's first western. As such, it's part of his long-range program for life.

"I have this program," he says, "of things I want to do. A western was at the top of the list. Then a musical—that will be 'Funny Girl' with Barbra Streisand, which is next for me. And then I would like to do a modern love story—and I'll do one with Anouk Aimee for Sidney Lumet in Paris after 'Funny Girl.'"

He seems to be thriving in the western atmosphere, enjoying the heat of the Arizona canyons, reveling in the fantastic scenery. He walks around practicing his quick draw and is getting good at it. Between takes, he jokes with the crew or retires to his air-conditioned trailer.

We talked about the Middle East crisis. Although he is an Egyptian native, he has few ties left with that country. All of his family has left—his parents are in Spain; he lives in Paris; a sister is in London.

"I think," Sharif says, "that the recent war may turn out to be a good thing in the long run by leading to a permanent settlement of the major problems. The great mass of Egyptians are uneducated and, therefore, easily led. I feel they can be led just as easily one way as the other."

"My hope is that someone comes along who will lead them away from belligerency."

Sharif's son is in an American school in Switzerland. Tarek, who is 10, was in "Dr. Zhivago" with his father and just lately did a film in Switzerland which his father didn't know about and he was furious.

"I didn't want him to do any more films," Sharif says. "He was getting big-headed after 'Zhivago.' He signed his letters to me. 'The Great Star.' But I do not want him to be an actor. It is selfish of me, but I feel if he wants to be an actor, I can help him. I can't if he's a doctor."

Sharif has a daughter, 17, who is studying to be an interpreter.

"She is the child of my first girl friend," he says. "She had the baby and she left her with me and we took her into our family. Then the mother went to Venezuela. Not long ago, I was playing in a bridge tournament and that girl was there, playing for Venezuela. When we knew each other, neither of us played bridge. And here we were, both playing in an international tournament."

Camilla Sparv is also making her debut in a western. As originally written, her part was called "Francey," but when she was cast they changed the character's name to "Inga" and let it go at that.

Camilla—Sparv, incidentally, means "sparrow" in Swedish—is enjoying her first exposure to the wide open spaces, although she says it does get dull, seeing the same people, every day.

"Sometimes," she says, "I just want to be by myself. Last night I bought some bread and cheese and ate dinner all alone in my motel room. I'd never have a location romance—never, ever—because it can get very complicated. Besides, everybody knows what you're doing."

Camilla, a tall, angular beauty, is very happy that her movie career flowered in the United States rather than her native Sweden.

"I'd never do one of those Swedish nude films," she says. "I used to be a big defender of Swedish movies, but after 'Night Games,' I defend them no more."

When she was approached by producer Carl Foreman to do "Mackenna's Gold," he asked her if she could ride and swim. She has to do both in the picture.

"I said yes," she says. "I am a good swimmer, that's no problem. But when I am not shooting, I am taking riding lessons. I have to stay one lesson ahead of the picture."

COWBOY CHUCK—We miss Connors on Television very much and wonder if he will ever be on again?—D. & E., Miami, Fla.

Chuck is currently in production as star of Cowboy In Africa, a new series slated for ABC-TV, beginning in September.

LIVE TAPE—Is the Johnny Carson show filmed or taped? I always thought it was live until I was told no.—F. W., Norfolk, Va.

The Carson Show is taped in the early evening hours in its entirety and shown a few hours later that same night.

Family Theatre Offers Beloved 'Moby Dick'

"MOBY DICK" is this week's HULL in the lead roles tells FAMILY THEATER feature. This program will be heard on Wednesday, July 26th over the stations of the MUTUAL NETWORK.

The story of "Moby Dick," the white whale, always inspires the longing for, and respectful awe of the sea in each generation.

This inspiring story with DANE CLARK and HENRY HULL in the lead roles tells us about a sea captain and his fanatic search and hate for the whale who had deprived him of a leg. A man unbalanced by his morbid unreasonable desire for revenge ruined his every chance for happiness.

FATHER PATRICK PEYTON, C.S.C. is the producer of FAMILY THEATER and is heard weekly over THE MUTUAL BROADCASTING SYSTEM.

"Moby Dick" was produced in Hollywood.

Respect for the 'Habit'

Sally Field, who is playing the lead in ABC-TV's The Flying Nun, says the habit she wears had an effect on the crew when they first began filming the show. "They were hesitant about using the same old language that all crews use. But now things are back to normal."

Repented?

Marge Redmond, who is also playing a nun in the series, has made two recent appearances on TV. She played the lusty, blowzy carnival owner who liked Robert Goulet in the recent production of Carousel, and she was the cheap woman in the hotel room with Lee J. Cobb in Death of a Salesman. "They will both be rerun forever and ever," she said, "while I'm playing a nun here. But I like that because I like versatility in my work."

St. Screen Gems?

Madeline Sherwood, the Broadway actress who is playing the Mother Superior in The Flying Nun, was asked what order the habit represented. "The order of St. Screen Gems," she said, referring to

Q. What is the interest rate on Freedom Shares?

A. 4.74% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 4½ years. The rate is less if redeemed prior to maturity; and they may not be redeemed for at least one year.

Q. Does this same rate now apply to E Bonds?

A. No. E Bonds continue to return an average of 4.15% when held to their seven-year maturity.

Q. What do Freedom Shares cost?

A. They are issued in face amounts of $25, $50, $75, and $100. Purchase prices are $20.25, $40.50, $60.75, and $81.00.

Q. Can Freedom Shares be bought by themselves?

A. No. They must be bought in conjunction with E Bonds of the same or larger face amounts.

Q. Can I buy as many Freedom Shares as I want, as long as I buy E Bonds of the same or larger amounts?

A. No. On Payroll Savings, Freedom Share deductions are limited to $20.25 per weekly pay period, $40.50 per bi-weekly or semimonthly pay period, $81.00 per monthly pay period. On Bond-a-Month, the limit on Freedom Share deductions is $81.00 per month.

Q. How will the Freedom Shares be registered?

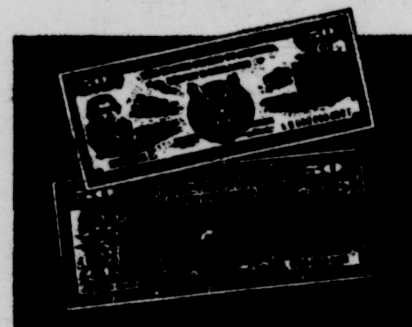

A. Registration must be identical with the E Bonds bought in combination.

Q. Are Freedom Shares subject to taxation?

ASCENDING STAR—It seems to me that Frank Converse is going to have one of the shortest "star" careers in the history of TV. He has achieved great popularity via Coronet Blue, which was scheduled to go off the air even before it went on. Is it possible, they will hold this series for a mid-season replacement like they did with some shows last year?—M. P., Miami, Fla.

There is very little possibility since Converse will be starring in another series titled "N.Y. P.D." (New York Police Department) set for ABC in the fall. The only, and quite remote, possibility would be if that series flopped so dismally it was quickly cancelled, leaving Converse to resume his role in Coronet Blue. Pretty far out, what?

Sheldon Wants an Emmy To Match His Oscar

By STAN MAAYS

HOLLYWOOD—Among the disappointed attending the recent Emmy Awards telecast in Hollywood was Sidney Sheldon, producer of NBC-TV's I Dream of Jeannie.

Sheldon really wanted the golden statuette to go alongside his Oscar, which he won for best screenplay for "The Bachelor and The Bobby-Soxer," and the Tony, which he got for work on Broadway's "Redhead."

But he's not giving up. He's going back to that productive drawing board of his which, besides turning out Jeannie, also turned out the Patty Duke series, his first two outings in TV and both successful.

He recently signed with Paramount TV to create and produce several pilots, in addition to writing and producing features. Sheldon will continue as executive producer of Jeannie at Screen Gems and "bicycle between the studios," Paramount being only three minutes away.

Sheldon, who has written, produced and directed comedies for Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor and Martin and Lewis during his many years in Hollywood, is the first to admit that he does "one-joke series."

"Sure I do them," he says, "but with variations. It's what you do with a one-joke series each week that counts. The point is, TV is a medium for escapism as well as entertainment. And when you add education, as we do with Jeannie in her situations with her astronaut boyfriend, viewers are kept abreast of what NASA is up to."

Sheldon adds he gets full cooperation from NASA officials, so that technical information used in the series is always accurate.

Where does a writer get these ideas to feed Madison Avenue's gluttonous appetite for comedies?

"There's a universal mind that you tap," Sheldon answers, admitting that getting ideas is the least of his worries. "I've got 40 ideas for new shows on paper right now."

Do writers' minds tend to collide on ideas?

"Yes," says Sheldon, "and I'll give you a classic example. I was having dinner in New York one night with Imogene Coca and her husband. We talked of funny situations, and I thought of having a husband and wife both lawyers, both on the same case and on opposite sides. Can you imagine the by-play going on inside and outside the court?"

"Well, shortly thereafter I went to Europe. Back in Hollywood a few months later, working on some new ideas, I remembered that night in New York. I had just worked up 15 pages of notes when one day I picked up the trade magazine. I was shocked to learn that Garson Kanin was already at work on 'Adam's Rib,' which starred Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn."

Sheldon, of course, tore up his notes. "The moral of the story," he adds, "is that when you get an idea, write it down immediately."

Best Non-Actor of Year

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK—It is an impossibility at this time to conjure up the potential Emmy award winners for the upcoming season.

We can, however, almost guarantee one non-winner: Ralph Taeger, starring in ABC-TV's forthcoming series, Hondo.

The only way Taeger can win is for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences to create a new category: Best "Non-Actor" in a Regular Series.

As Hondo, Taeger is big, brittle, often brutal, and totally natural. It is possibly the most refreshing performance to come down the pike in many a moon.

"You couldn't call me a method actor," the big-boned star said recently. "In fact, in this role most people wouldn't even call me an actor."

"I just play the part the way it is without any frills or techniques."

Hondo, which is taken from the John Wayne film, is about a tough, brooding cowboy whom the Indians have called Emberrato, meaning bad-tempered.

"It is a difficult role to put into character," Ralph said. "If you make it absolutely mean, you will lose a large segment of your audience. If you put goodness and light into it, you lose the essential character."

"So you have to make it appealing despite the brittleness, and to me the only way to do that was to make him totally natural."

RALPH TAEGER

"He has his bitter memories and trigger temper but these are so extreme that they have to be offset by natural aspects of a man that an ordinary actor wouldn't use. For instance, his awkward speech, terribly sloppy clothes and complete lack of poise."

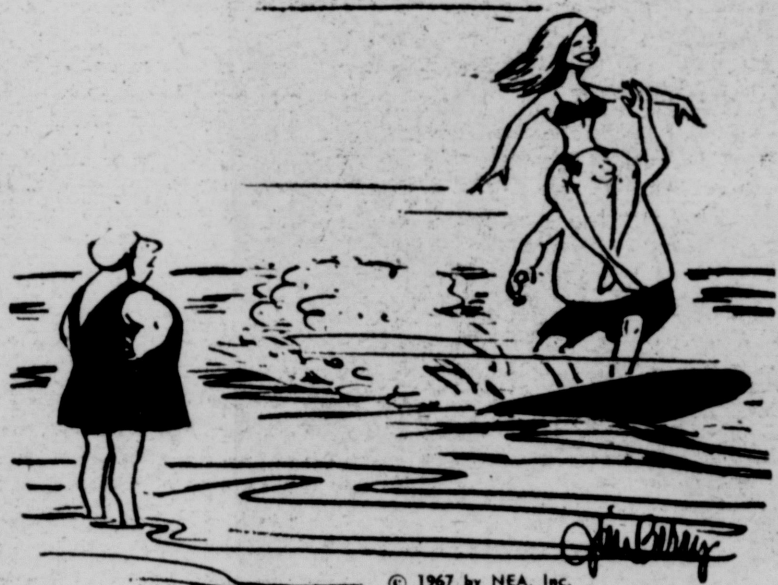

"These things don't belong in a polished performance, but they are true to life."

And so is Hondo.

We guaranteed earlier that Ralph Taeger would not win an Emmy for acting next season.

The oddity is that Taeger is acting, and doing it so well, you will swear he is neither acting nor an actor.

He Gave It a Try

Andy Griffith is no longer a Little League umpire. "I felt, as a father, I should participate. But every time I went out to umpire a game I knew fear such as I have never known before. I asked another father if he felt the same way and he loved doing it. Then I decided there are some of 'em who can stand it, and some of 'em who can't and I'm one of 'em who quit."

Ironie Note

Chuck Connors, returning to television in ABC-TV's Cowboy in Africa, reports an ironic note. He was due to play a role in a film to be made in Peru when he had to go to the hospital for an operation. He was replaced in the role by Eric Fleming, who lost his life when he drowned during the production.

2 New Channel 5 Shows Premiere on August 28

WNEU-TV, Channel 5, will debut "The New Yorkers" and "The Woody Woodbury Show," two major new programming ventures for the 1967-68 season on Monday, August 28.

Starting at 1:00 PM that day, the station will present the first of its new live series for women, "The New Yorkers," starring Sonny Fox and Penelope Wilson. The program will be seen weekdays in color from 1:00 to 3:30 PM, and will be strongly oriented towards community issues and personalities.

Mr. Fox, who is completing a nine-year run as host of the "Wonderama" series for children will make his last appearance on the Sunday morning program on August 6, when he introduces his successor, Bob McAllister.

"The Woody Woodbury Show," originating via tape from the studios of sister Metro-media station KTTV, Los Angeles, will debut at 11:15 PM on August 28.

The 90-minute weeknightly color series is a co-production with Ralph Edwards, whose "Truth or Consequences" is also seen on Metromedia TV stations. Both shows are syndicated nationally by the Wolper Television Sales division of Metromedia.

"The Woody Woodbury Show" will feature guest stars, music, and audience participation. Mr. Woodbury succeeded Johnny Carson as host of ABC-TV's "Who Do You Trust?" in 1959, and has appeared in, and operated nightclubs in Florida.

Johann Strauss II, composer of over 400 waltzes, was known as the "Waltz King."
